

ADAMAWA STATE POLICY ON INTERNALLY DISPLACED PERSONS

FORWARD

RT. HON. AHMADU UMARU FINTIRI
EXECUTIVE GOVERNOR
ADAMAWA STATE

The Adamawa State Government has recognized the urgent need to address the challenges faced by its displaced population, which has resulted from various conflicts and disasters. In response, the government has developed this Policy on Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs), specifically aimed at tackling the issues associated with internal displacement within the state.

The policy underscores the importance of taking practical steps to prevent and control internal displacement by focusing on addressing its root causes.

The government is fully committed to ensuring the protection of the displaced population, extending this protection to their fundamental rights. Beyond the assurance of these rights, there is also a steadfast commitment to alleviating the suffering of displaced persons wherever and whenever displacement occurs. These efforts are intended to guarantee a well-coordinated and effective response to the issue of internal displacement.

This document, officially titled the Adamawa State Policy on Internally Displaced Persons, outlines comprehensive strategies for achieving durable solutions for displaced populations. These strategies are further detailed in the Adamawa State Homegrown Durable Solutions for Displacement. The primary objective is to ensure that IDPs reach the point where they no longer require assistance or protection due to their displacement. The policy also guarantees that displaced individuals are empowered to make informed choices, whether that involves voluntarily returning to their places of origin, integrating into host communities, or relocating to other areas within Nigeria.

In accordance with international law, the responsibility for protecting internally displaced populations and providing them with socio-economic opportunities lies with Nigeria as a nation. This responsibility extends to all states, including Adamawa, where displacement has occurred or may occur. The policy is grounded in both national and international laws, providing a comprehensive framework for the protection of IDPs and the resolution of their challenges. Key reference instruments include the National Policy on Internally Displaced Persons, the United Nations Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement (1998), and the African Union Convention for the Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced Persons in Africa (2009).

The policy introduces an institutional coordination framework, adopting an interagency and multi-sectoral approach to managing and responding to internal displacement. The roles and responsibilities of the government and various humanitarian actors—such as host communities, local, national, and international humanitarian organizations, security agencies, and funding bodies—are clearly defined. Additionally, the policy outlines both the rights and obligations of IDPs. Through this policy, the Adamawa State Government affirms its commitment to preventing internal displacement and ensuring the protection of those already displaced within the state.

Rt. Hon. (Dr) Ahmadu Umaru Fintiri
Executive Governor,
Adamawa State, Nigeria.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The successful realization of this work is the result of the combined efforts and unwavering support of various individuals, institutions, and organizations.

The Adamawa State Emergency Management Agency extends sincere gratitude to all who contributed to making this project a reality.

First and foremost, the Agency expresses its profound appreciation to the Executive Governor of Adamawa State, Rt. Hon. (Dr) Ahmadu Umaru Fintiri. His vision and commitment served as the inspiration for this initiative, and his exemplary leadership has been instrumental in driving the advancement of this important work.

Special thanks are extended to the Multi-Sectoral Crises Recovery Project (MCRP) for their pivotal role in facilitating the successful implementation of the project.

The Agency acknowledges with deep appreciation the invaluable efforts of the Ministry for Reconstruction, Rehabilitation, Reintegration and Humanitarian Services, as well as the multi-sectoral technical working group. Their dedication to revising the draft Adamawa State Policy on Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) has been crucial. The generous contributions of time, insights, and expertise from these groups have enriched every stage of the policy review process.

The Agency remains grateful for the support and input received from esteemed organizations including the World Bank, UNICEF, the Internal Displacement Monitoring Centre (IDMC) of the Norwegian Refugee Commission, the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), the United Nations High Commission for Refugees (UNHCR), the Office of the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA), and the International Organisation for Migration (IOM).

Specific acknowledgment is given to the consultants and technical experts whose professional guidance was crucial in steering the development and review of this policy. Their efforts in consolidating the recommendations of the draft policy review committee, incorporating feedback from external reviewers, and facilitating comprehensive stakeholder consultations ensured broad participation and inclusiveness throughout the formulation process.

The Agency commends the diligence, commitment, and resourcefulness displayed by all consultants and team members involved in this Endeavor. Finally, our gratitude goes to the Honourable Commissioner, Ministry for Reconstruction, Rehabilitation, Reintegration, and Humanitarian Service for his steadfast determination and commitment towards the finalization and adoption of the Adamawa State Policy on Internally Displaced Persons.

CHAPTER ONE

INTRODUCTION

This chapter aims to provide contextual background and situation analysis on internal displacement in Adamawa State as well as the definition of key terms as applicable to this policy

CONTEXTUAL BACKGROUND AND SITUATION ANALYSIS

The contextual background and situation analysis provide information on the global, national, and state-level context of internal displacement, examine the major causes of internal displacement in the state, and highlight the impact of displacement on those affected population as well as their protection and assistance need

CONTEXTUAL BACKGROUND

While there is a visibly large population of Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) in Adamawa State, dispersed across several Local Government Areas and displaced by a combination of conflict, insecurity, and other shocks, the absence of a single, comprehensive, and consistently updated state-level database continues to limit the availability of precise figures. Existing data are largely derived from periodic assessments and therefore reflect trends rather than exact real-time counts.

The Displacement Tracking Matrix (DTM), implemented by the International Organization for Migration (IOM) in collaboration with national and state partners including the Adamawa State Emergency Management Agency (ADSEMA), the National Emergency Management Agency (NEMA), and the Nigerian Red Cross Society (NRCS), remains the primary source of displacement data in the North-East. The most recent DTM Round 49 (October–November 2024) published in March 2025 indicates that approximately 2.25 million IDPs remain displaced across the conflict-affected states of North-East Nigeria. Although publicly available summaries from Round 49 do not provide a standalone official figure for Adamawa State, historical and trend-based DTM analysis confirms that Adamawa continues to host a significant proportion of the region's displaced population, second only to Borno State.

Trend analysis across successive DTM rounds shows that displacement in Adamawa State escalated sharply between 2014 and 2016, corresponding with the height of Boko Haram-related violence. Since then, the displacement situation has evolved into a protracted and complex pattern, characterized by partial returns, secondary displacement, and prolonged residence in host communities rather than formal camps. Relative to other North-East states, Adamawa records a higher concentration of IDPs living within host communities, placing sustained pressure on housing, social services, livelihoods, and community cohesion.

Consistent with regional trends highlighted in DTM Round 49, a substantial proportion of the displaced population in Adamawa State are children under the age of 18, while adult women constitute a significant share of the IDP population, including many female-headed households. These demographic patterns heighten protection risks and underscore the long-term implications of displacement on education, health, livelihoods, and psychosocial wellbeing.

DTM assessments also document large-scale return movements across the North-East. Earlier DTM rounds recorded over 1.7 million returnees within and from outside Nigeria by late 2020, including return movements affecting Adamawa State. However, recent assessments emphasize that many returnees face inadequate shelter, limited access to basic services, damaged infrastructure, weak livelihoods, and fragile security conditions, increasing the risk of secondary displacement and undermining prospects for durable solutions.

Complementary vulnerability screenings conducted by ADSEMA and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) have consistently identified high-risk groups among displaced populations in Adamawa State. These include female-headed households, persons with disabilities, individuals with serious medical conditions, older persons, and unaccompanied or separated children, both in camps and host communities. These vulnerabilities persist due to prolonged displacement, poverty, and overstretched community support systems.

The 2024 Humanitarian Needs Overview (HNO) for Nigeria indicates that conflict, insecurity, and the protracted effects of Boko Haram violence and military counter-insurgency operations continue to drive humanitarian needs across the North-East. As of 2024, an estimated over 7.4 million people in the three most conflict-affected states of Borno, Adamawa, and Yobe (BAY states) are assessed to be in need of humanitarian assistance and protection. Adamawa State accounts for a substantial share of these needs, reflecting its dual role as both a host state for displaced populations and a state of origin for returnees. Despite localized improvements in security, humanitarian needs remain persistent and multidimensional, driven by displacement, food insecurity, protection risks, climate-related shocks, and economic pressures.

Recognizing that IDPs are among the most vulnerable populations, the Federal Government of Nigeria signed, ratified, and deposited its instrument of ratification for the African Union Convention for the Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced Persons in Africa (Kampala Convention), which entered into force on 6 December 2012. Earlier, the First Ministerial Conference on Humanitarian Assistance and Internal Displacement in West Africa, held in Abuja in July 2011 under the auspices of the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS), emphasized the importance of ratifying, domesticating, and implementing the Convention, as well as strengthening good governance, respect for human rights, and adherence to International Humanitarian Law to prevent displacement and mitigate its impacts.

In the absence of a comprehensive and fully operational state-level policy framework on internal displacement in Adamawa State, responses to the plight of IDPs have remained largely fragmented and insufficiently coordinated, while efforts to address the root causes of displacement have been limited. As a result, displaced populations remain highly vulnerable to exploitation, abuse, and neglect. In addition, inconsistencies and gaps in available data continue to pose challenges for accurately assessing the scale and impact of internal displacement on host communities, state stability, and long-term development planning.

CAUSES OF INTERNAL DISPLACEMENT IN ADAMAWA STATE

In Adamawa State, internal displacement is driven by a combination of conflict-related, socio-economic, and environmental factors. Violent conflicts with ethnic, religious, and political undertones have historically contributed to displacement, alongside recurrent natural hazards such as seasonal flooding, which continue to displace households on an annual basis. Additional displacement has resulted from farmer–herder clashes, confrontations between government security forces and non-state armed groups, and, more recently, banditry and kidnapping, particularly in border and rural areas.

Large-scale internal displacement in Adamawa State is also closely linked to the armed conflict between the Government of Nigeria and non-state armed groups, particularly Boko Haram and affiliated factions operating in the wider North-East. Although Adamawa is not the epicentre of the insurgency, it has remained significantly affected due to its proximity to conflict zones, porous borders, and its role as a major host state for displaced populations fleeing violence in neighbouring areas.

According to the Displacement Tracking Matrix (DTM), internal displacement across the North-East has remained persistently high over the years, with millions affected at different points in time. While displacement levels have fluctuated due to returns and secondary movements, many displaced persons have experienced protracted displacement lasting several years, reflecting ongoing insecurity, limited livelihood opportunities, and fragile conditions in areas of origin. These dynamics continue to affect Adamawa State, where displacement has increasingly shifted from emergency movements to long-term, protracted situations.

Recent analyses further demonstrate that vulnerability to internal displacement in Adamawa State and Nigeria more broadly is not solely the result of armed conflict or natural disasters. It is significantly exacerbated by structural factors, including widespread poverty, limited access to socio-economic opportunities, unequal development, weak service delivery, and high unemployment among young people. These conditions heighten exposure to displacement and undermine the ability of affected populations to recover and pursue durable solutions.

In the past, disproportionate emphasis on disaster-induced displacement has contributed to policy responses that prioritize disaster risk reduction while paying comparatively limited attention to conflict- and violence-induced displacement. This approach has constrained the development of comprehensive and integrated strategies capable of addressing the full spectrum of displacement drivers and supporting durable solutions for all displaced populations, regardless of cause.

The endorsement of this Internally Displaced Persons (IDP) Policy by the Adamawa State Government represents a clear demonstration of political will to address internal displacement in a holistic and sustainable manner. It reflects recognition of the primary responsibility of state and national authorities to protect, assist, and support IDPs in line with national obligations and international standards. More importantly, it provides a strategic framework for advancing durable solutions, including local integration, voluntary return, and safe relocation, while strengthening coordination, accountability, and long-term recovery for displaced populations across the state.

Section 14(2) (b) of the 1999 Nigerian Constitution imposes an obligation on the government, at all levels, to promote the security and welfare of the people as the primary purpose of government Article 3(2) of the Kampala Convention on IDPs in Africa requires States Parties to adopt implementing national legal and policy frameworks on the protection and assistance of IDPs Further, the Convention's Article 4 is to the effect that State Parties are obliged to ensure that all persons are protected against arbitrary displacement as a human right

Furthermore, by the Convention's Article 7, both parties in armed conflict are obliged to respect the provisions of International Humanitarian Law (IHL) and Human Rights Law in the protection and assistance of IDPs Violators of the rights of IDPs shall be held responsible for their acts under both international and national laws

One of the key factors compounding the plight of IDPs in Adamawa State lies in the weak or non-existent process of enabling IDPs to make an informed and voluntary decision as to whether to return to their home communities, remain where they are, or relocate elsewhere in the country

IMPACT OF INTERNAL DISPLACEMENT ON IDPS AND THEIR HOST COMMUNITIES

Impact of internal Displacement on IDPs in Adamawa State during violent conflicts or natural disasters, which force the populations to flee and leave their communities, most of their houses and properties are destroyed, looted, or burnt down. Most IDPs in Adamawa State, having been deprived of their homes and sometimes their land and livelihood, flee to neighboring communities that are safe, usually taking refuge in temporary shelters such as schools, police stations, military barracks, public buildings, and places of worship among others. This results in their lacking access to necessities of life such as food, water, shelter, education, and healthcare. Furthermore, it is mainly while fleeing for safer places that families get separated and contact is disrupted, increasing their vulnerability and exposing them to risks.

While some efforts are made by humanitarian and faith-based organizations and government agencies to address some of the basic needs of IDPs, their vulnerability tends to be exacerbated by barriers to accessing healthcare services, education, employment, economic activities, and information for participation in decision-making affecting their lives. With some IDPs camping in school buildings, education is usually disrupted for both local host communities and displaced children.

Furthermore, IDPs in Nigeria are at risk of insecurity, discrimination, and all forms of exploitation and abuse, including sexual violence, rape, camping in congested shelters, and isolated, insecure or inhospitable areas. IDPs are also largely separated from their families, especially unaccompanied children and teenagers, the elderly and infirm, persons with disabilities, and pregnant women, whose special needs and privacy may not be attended to, due to fragmented and uncoordinated humanitarian response to the needs of IDPs. IDPs in Nigeria may also face a lack of access to justice concerning cases of human rights violations such as discrimination against ethnic and religious minorities, sexual violence, and deprivation of means of livelihood.

Even when the situation of most IDPs improves, potentially durable solutions have remained out of the reach of specific groups with particular needs or vulnerabilities. These include the elderly or sick people, widows barred from recovering the property they had lived on, or members of minorities facing discrimination, marginalization, and exclusion or whose livelihoods depend on attachment to their areas of origin or settlement. For such groups, strategies or incentives that had encouraged others to move towards a durable solution may not have been effective or accessible, and the tailored support they needed to rebuild their lives may not have been available.

Impact of Displacement on Host Communities: When internally displaced persons are accommodated by host communities, these communities also experience immense pressure. There is overcrowding of internally displaced persons who create informal settlements on communal and private land. There is also an over-stretching of social basic amenities such as water and social services, (schools, clinics), and other social infrastructure including housing. Trees are cut down for firewood, building materials and charcoal burning, causing environmental degradation in the long run. More often than not, some internally displaced persons decide to settle into host communities seeking new livelihood opportunities and hope for a better life.

Sometimes, as internally displaced persons overburden existing community services, resources, and job or economic livelihood opportunities, tension arises between the two populations, making effective local integration difficult. The cost of living in host communities also increases, especially the cost of food, housing, healthcare, and education; such tensions can also arise from ethnic and religious considerations

However, experience from the North-East of Nigeria has shown that host communities have also benefitted from the presence of IDPs in their communities in the areas of improved healthcare; for instance, the expansion of hospital facilities and personnel through the intervention of the Government and Non-Government Agencies.

DEFINITION OF KEY TERMS

Arbitrary Displacement: Arbitrary displacement as used in this policy shall connote the meanings adopted in the UN Guiding Principles and the Kampala Convention. The UN Guiding Principles (Principle 6) and the Kampala Convention (Article 4) recognize and construe arbitrary displacement to mean:

1. Displacement based on policies of racial discrimination or other similar practices aimed at/or resulting in altering the ethnic, religious or racial composition of the population.
2. Individual or mass displacement of civilians in situations of armed conflict, unless the security of the civilians involved or imperative military reasons so demand, per international humanitarian law.
3. Displacement intentionally used as a method of warfare or due to other violations of international humanitarian law in situations of armed conflict.
4. Displacement caused by generalized violence or violations of human rights
5. Displacement as a result of harmful practices.
6. Forced evacuations in cases of natural or human made disasters or other causes if the evacuations are not required by the safety and health of those affected.
7. Displacement used as a collective punishment.
8. Displacement caused by any act, event, factor, or phenomenon of comparable gravity to all of the above and which is not justified under international law, including human rights and international humanitarian law.

Armed conflict: Armed conflict means international armed conflict, which is the resort to armed force on the territory of another State without its consent; as well as non-international armed conflict, which is protracted armed confrontations of a minimum level of intensity occurring between governmental armed forces and the forces of one or more organized armed groups, or between such groups arising on the territory of a State.

Armed Groups: These refer to dissident armed forces or other organized armed groups that are distinct from the armed forces of the Federal Republic of Nigeria.

Camps: These are erected sites with non-permanent shelters (e.g. tents) used for the collective and communal accommodation of evacuated or displaced persons. Camps can be planned (i.e. purposely built sites, completed before or during the influx) or self-settled (i.e. set up spontaneously by internally displaced persons or host communities without the support of the government or the humanitarian community).

Collective Centres: These refer to pre-existing buildings and structures used for the collective and communal non-permanent accommodation of evacuated/displaced persons in the event of a disaster. Types of buildings and structures used as collective centres vary widely. They include schools, hotels, community centres, town halls, sports infrastructures, hospitals, religious buildings, police posts, military barracks, warehouses, disused factories, and unfinished buildings, etc.

Collective shelters: These include camps and collective centres as defined above.

Conflict-induced Displacement: This refers to displacement resulting from people being forced to flee their homes for one or more reasons including armed conflict, communal conflicts, generalized violence, etc. and where the state authorities are unable or unwilling to protect them.

Development-induced Displacement: This refers to a situation where people are compelled to move as a result of policies and projects implemented to supposedly enhance 'development'. Examples of this include large-scale infrastructure projects such as dams, roads, ports, airports, refineries, and oil and gas installations.

Disaster: In this policy, a disaster refers to an unanticipated occurrence resulting in serious disruption of the functioning of a community or a society causing widespread human, material, economic, or environmental losses that exceed the ability of the affected individuals, community, or society to cope using their or its own resources.

Disaster Management: Disaster Management is the coordination and integration of all activities necessary to build, sustain and improve the capability to prepare for, protect against, respond to and recover from threatening or actual natural or human-induced disasters. Disaster Management can also be defined as the coordination and integration of all activities necessary to build, sustain and improve the capability for disaster prevention, mitigation, preparedness, response and recovery.

Disaster-induced Displacement: This category includes displacement of people caused by natural hazards, disasters (floods, volcanoes, landslides, earthquakes), environmental change (deforestation, desertification, land degradation, global warming) and man-made/induced disasters (industrial accidents, radioactivity).

Discrimination: In the context of this policy, discrimination means any disadvantageous distinctions that are based on race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinions, national or social origin, state or local government of origin, Indigenous group, property, birth, age, disability or other status of a person. To give advantage or preference to someone based on objective and serious reasons (e.g. particular vulnerability; specific needs not shared by others) rather than those criteria above, does not amount to discrimination even if the person concerned possesses them.

Durable Solutions: A durable solution is achieved when internally displaced persons no longer have any specific assistance and protection needs that are linked to their displacement and can enjoy their human rights without discrimination on account of their displacement. This requires a comprehensive approach encompassing voluntary return, local integration and relocation elsewhere in the country.

Early Recovery: Recovery that begins early in humanitarian settings, that involves multi-dimensional process, guided by development principles and restoration of basic services.

Early Warning: Network systems for gathering information on hazards and its use in taking action to better protect the environment and entire population.

Emergency: A situation in which lives and property are at risk and outside intervention or unusual initiatives by the group or community affected is needed.

Search & Rescue (SAR): is the organized process of locating, assisting, and safely recovering people who are missing, trapped, or in danger due to emergencies such as natural disasters, accidents, or conflicts. It typically involves trained teams using specialized equipment to search affected areas, provide immediate life-saving aid, and evacuate survivors to safety.

Evacuation: This refers to facilitation or organization of transfer of individuals or groups from one area or locality to another in order to ensure their security, safety and well-being. Evacuations are forced if they are ordered and/or enforced by authorities. A forced evacuation is not considered arbitrary or unlawful displacement and thus permissible if it is done in accordance with the law, absolutely necessary under the circumstances, to protect lives, health or the physical integrity of affected persons and to the extent the emergency allows, in proper consultation with the affected population.

Forced Eviction: According to the UN Basic Guidelines on Development-based Evictions and Displacement, this refers to acts and/or omissions involving the coerced or involuntary displacement of individuals, groups and communities from homes and/or lands and common property resources that were occupied or depended upon, thus eliminating or limiting the ability of an individual, group or community to reside or work in a particular dwelling, residence or location, without the provision of, and access to, appropriate forms of legal or other protection. The notion of forced eviction does not apply to evictions carried out both in accordance with the law and in conformity with the provisions of international human rights treaties. Forced eviction does not automatically mean arbitrary displacement, but can be the first step leading to it.

Guiding Principles: These refer to the 1998 United Nations Guiding Principles on Internal Displacement, which are recognized as an important international framework for the protection of internally displaced persons.

Hazard: This refers to an event or incident which, if it materializes, can adversely affect the survival, security and safety of individuals, households or communities e.g. conflict, epidemics, flood and drought etc.

Host Community: This refers to a community that, though not displaced itself, experiences the impact or consequences of displacement, either because it has to host a considerable number of internally displaced persons either in camps, collective centres, informal settlements or by directly integrating them into households. It also refers to a community that has to receive and integrate formerly displaced persons who decide to return to their homes and places of habitual residence or who have decided to settle permanently elsewhere in the country.

Humanitarian worker: This includes any worker engaged by a humanitarian agency, whether internationally or nationally recruited, or formally or informally retained from the beneficiary community, to conduct the activities of that agency.

Internal Displacement: According to the African Union Convention for Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced Persons in Africa (Kampala Convention, 2009), "Internal displacement" means "the involuntary' or forced movement, evacuation or relocation of persons or groups of persons within internationally recognized state borders.

Internally Displaced Persons: According to the African Union Convention for Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced Persons in Africa (Kampala Convention, 2009), the term "Internally Displaced Persons" is defined as "persons or groups of persons who have been forced or obliged to flee or to leave their homes or places of habitual residence, in particular as a result of or in order to avoid the effects of armed conflict, situations of generalized violence, violations of human rights or natural or human-made disasters, and who have not crossed an internationally recognized State border".

Kampala Convention: This refers to the African Union Convention for the Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced Persons in Africa adopted by the special summit of the Union held in Kampala, Uganda, on 22nd October 2009

Livelihoods: These refer to "the combination of the resources used, and the activities undertaken in order to live. The resources might consist of individual skills and abilities (human capital), land, savings and equipment (natural, financial and physical capital, respectively), and formal support groups or informal networks that assist in the activities being undertaken (social capital).

Missing Relative: This is the Relative of an IDP whose whereabouts is not known to his or her relatives and/or who, on the basis of reliable information, has been reported missing in connection with an armed conflict, natural or human-made disaster, a situation of internal violence or disturbances, illegal or secret detention, crimes or any other situation that may require the intervention of a competent state authority.

Non-State Actors: These refer to private actors who are not public officials of the Government of Nigeria, including other armed groups not referred to in article I (d) of the Kampala Convention, and whose acts cannot be officially attributed to the Nigerian government.

Protection: According to the Inter-Agency Standing Committee on Internally Displaced Persons Protection Policy (1999), protection is defined as "all activities aimed at obtaining full respect for the rights of the individual in accordance with the letter and the spirit of the relevant bodies of law (i.e. human rights law, international humanitarian Law, refugee law) Protection, therefore, involves creating an environment conducive to respect for human beings, preventing and/or alleviating the immediate effects of a specific pattern of abuse, and restoring dignified conditions of life through reparation, restitution and rehabilitation.

Reintegration: This means to provide services to assist the displaced into meaningful employment or other forms of economic empowerment within society and to stimulate the development of effective service delivery. To provide an adequate standard of living, at the minimum, access to food, water, housing, healthcare, basic education and access to effective mechanisms that restore IDPs' housing, land and property or provide them with compensation in accordance with due process of law.

Return: Enabling internally displaced persons to voluntarily return to their areas of habitual residence in a safe and dignified manner
Returnees: These refer to persons or group of persons returning to their communities after displacement by armed conflict, natural or human induced disasters, situations of generalized violence, forced evictions or human rights violations

Risk: is the probability or likelihood that a hazard will materialize.

Sectors: are sectoral groups aimed at strengthening the effectiveness of humanitarian response, particularly by building partnerships; to ensure predictability and accountability by clarifying the division of labor among organizations and better defining their roles and responsibilities.

Sexual Abuse: This refers to actual or threatened physical intrusion of a sexual nature, including inappropriate touching, by force or under unequal or coercive conditions.

Sexual Exploitation: This refers to any abuse of a position of vulnerability, differential power or trust for sexual purposes; including profiting monetarily, socially or politically from the sexual exploitation of another.

Sphere Minimum Standards: These refer to internationally acceptable minimum standards for monitoring and evaluating the effectiveness and impact of humanitarian assistance. .

Vulnerability: Vulnerability refers to "the characteristics of a person or group and their situation that influence their capacity to anticipate, cope, resist and recover from the impact of hazard " (Wisner et al, 2004). It involves a combination of factors that determine the degree to which someone's life, livelihood, property and other assets are susceptible to risk caused by a discrete and identifiable event (or series or cascade of such events) in nature and society.

CHAPTER TWO

POLICY THRUST

This chapter provides policy framework and scope, rationale/justification, goals, objectives, guiding principles, and declaration (vision and mission)

POLICY FRAMEWORK AND SCOPE

This policy provides a framework for the Adamawa State Government's responsibility in preventing and protecting indigenes and, in some cases, non-indigenes from arbitrary and other forms of internal displacement. It meets their assistance and protection needs during displacement and ensures their reconstruction, rehabilitation, return, reintegration, and relocation after displacement. The policy spells out principles guiding humanitarian assistance and the implementation of durable solutions in situations of internal displacement in the State.

This policy has adopted the human rights-based approach and its principles. The intention is to accommodate, as much as possible, the provisions of existing international conventions, treaties, and protocols on internal displacement, guided by the dictates of international humanitarian and human rights laws. This policy, therefore, draws extensively on the guidance of international and national frameworks on the prevention of internal displacement, as well as those on the protection and assistance of internally displaced persons. The Kampala Convention, the UN Guiding Principles on internal displacement, and the Sphere Minimum Standards for Humanitarian Assistance have significantly defined the direction of this policy.

The policy, therefore, without prejudice to other existing frameworks and policy guidelines for the protection and assistance of vulnerable populations, specifically seeks to address:

1. All causes of internal displacement as identified above.
2. All groups of internally displaced persons including those with special needs and vulnerabilities including host communities.
3. All needs of internally displaced persons, including assistance and protection needs, thereby ensuring the realization of the full range of their human rights.

4. All phases of displacement including pre-emergency and relief phases to recovery (reconstruction, rehabilitation, reintegration, return, and relocation phases), thereby creating conditions for durable solutions.
5. Local and State Government levels and the three arms of government (including all ministries, departments, and agencies of the government) are charged with diverse responsibilities for guaranteeing the rights of internally displaced persons and adequately meeting their assistance and protection needs.
6. All conflict and disaster-affected areas and communities by opening up the humanitarian space as well as facilitating, coordinating, and ensuring safe and secure access by all state and non-state humanitarian actors to internally displaced persons, irrespective of where internal displacement has occurred within the Adamawa State, (including territories not directly under the control of conflicting parties be they state or non-state actors).
7. All Rights of internally displaced persons as provided under national laws, international human rights and humanitarian laws, and other related instruments relevant for the protection and assistance of IDPs, and which guarantee their fundamental freedoms and claim to a life of dignity.
8. All obligations of state and non-state actors as provided for under national law, international human rights law, international humanitarian law, and other relevant international and regional treaties to which Nigeria is a State Party.

POLICY VISION AND MISSION

VISION STATEMENT

This policy envisions an equitable and stable Adamawa State that is proactive and responsive to situations that could lead to internal displacement, where the right to life and dignity is guaranteed for all internally displaced persons and where adequate measures and durable solutions exist to prevent and mitigate the impact of internal displacement on vulnerable populations

MISSION STATEMENT

This policy seeks to provide a framework for accountability and responsibility in protecting, promoting, and fulfilling the rights of internally displaced persons, families, and host communities and adopt strategic measures for coordinated gender-sensitive responses to all types and phases of internal displacement in Adamawa State.

POLICY GOAL AND OBJECTIVES

The overall goal of this policy is to strengthen institutional mechanisms and framework for the realization of the rights, dignity, and well-being of vulnerable populations through the prevention of the root causes, mitigation of the impacts, and achievement of durable solutions to internal displacement in Adamawa State.

This policy, therefore, seeks to achieve the following specific objectives:

1. Ensure establishing a comprehensive and gender responsive framework for the state's responsibility, coordination, and collaboration concerning protection, assistance, and other humanitarian interventions related to internal displacement in Adamawa State.
2. Provide for the respective obligations, responsibilities, and roles of various agencies and institutions of government and non-state actors, including communities, civil society organizations, armed groups, international humanitarian and development partners, or any other relevant actors concerning the prevention of internal displacement, protection of, and assistance to internally displaced persons in Adamawa State.
3. Provide a framework that will encourage all humanitarian actors to strive toward ensuring that no displaced person remains in camp or camp-like situation for more than a period of 6-12 months, using the various durable solution options as a key towards implementation.
4. Promote the fundamental human rights of all internally displaced persons and returnees in Nigeria and ensure their participation in processes that have direct impact on their well-being as well as ensure maximum access to protection and assistance without any form of discrimination whatsoever.

5. Accentuate the commitment of the Agency.
6. Government to the obligations of state parties under various international treaties, conventions, and protocols relating to international humanitarian law and human rights protection in situations of emergencies and internal displacement, with special attention to the Kampala Convention; and
7. Ensure measures are put in place to hold to account state and non-state actors including individuals, armed groups, multinationals, and other actors, whose actions or in-actions directly or indirectly result in arbitrary displacement of vulnerable populations in the state

POLICY GUIDING PRINCIPLES

This policy is predicated on several general and humanitarian assistance/human rights protection principles enshrined in various bodies of international humanitarian and human rights laws and codes of conduct.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES

For specificity, the following general principles are cardinal to the effective implementation of this policy:

1. Principle of Respect for Sovereignty: This policy recognizes that the government of Adamawa State has the primary responsibility of protecting and assisting its citizens in the event of internal displacement. Where national capacity is inadequate, the government must seek external assistance from the international humanitarian community. Where such assistance is being rendered, serving humanitarian agencies must show respect for the sovereignty, territorial integrity, and the unity of the people of Adamawa state, and operate within the laws of operating in the state. However, the Government, while supplementing the Federal Government in protecting the sovereignty of the country, will ensure that the rights, needs, and legitimate interests of internally displaced persons are given primary consideration.

2. Principle of Gender Equality: This policy upholds the primacy of gender equality and the equal protection of human rights in carrying out humanitarian and peacebuilding activities, paying special attention to the violation of women's rights and the provision of appropriate remedies. While intervening in internal displacement, state and non-state humanitarian actors must ensure equal representation of women and men in peace mediation and decision-making at all levels and stages of humanitarian assistance and guarantee the participation of women's organizations in capacity-building for humanitarian response, rehabilitation, and recovery.
3. Principle of Empowerment: Humanitarian assistance and protection of internally displaced persons must be provided with the primary objective of saving lives, in ways that support livelihoods, reduce vulnerability to future causes of displacement, and support durable solutions. Government agencies and humanitarian actors should, therefore, work to ensure that aid does not undermine local productivity or coping strategies, disturb normal migration patterns, or foster dependency. Internal displacement prevention and impact mitigating programs must be carefully planned and implemented in ways that facilitate the link from relief to sustainable development and durable solutions. International humanitarian actors, in the course of their interventions on internal displacement in the state through the existing State Government Agencies and Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs), ADSEMA should consider working with and through locally existing government agencies and non-governmental.
4. Organizations as partners in planning and implementation, as well as collaborating and cooperating with relevant government structures where appropriate. They should as much as possible, strengthen local technical and institutional capacity to scale up or replicate such interventions at local and national levels. Strengthening local capacity should also include employing local staff, purchasing local materials, and trading with local commodity and service providers.
5. Principle of Participation: Designing, planning, implementing, monitoring, and evaluating interventions targeting internally displaced persons or their host communities must actively involve them at all stages. They must be carried along in decision-making processes and be duly consulted and informed on decisions related to their relocation, provision of relief, rehabilitation, return, relocation or re-integration. They must also be actively involved in the management of camps, and conscious effort must be made to include women and children in such decision-making processes.

6. Principle of Accountability: Disaster situations offer tendencies for mismanagement, abuse and misappropriation of available funds and resources. The relationship between humanitarian agencies and affected people often mutually reinforces the notion that relief is charity, viewing affected people as passive recipients. Both government, private sector, local and international humanitarian agencies and development partners active in the protection and assistance of internally displaced persons must demonstrate openness and accountability for resources and actions. Primary accountability shall be to the beneficiaries (internally displaced persons and their communities), to the coordinating agency and to the donors, through full disclosure of relevant information and timely reporting. In accordance with the principle of accountability, this policy holds state and non-state actors accountable for their actions or inactions resulting in internal displacement, whether arbitrary in nature, man-made, development-related, due to natural resource exploitation or caused by preventable natural disasters.

HUMANITARIAN PRINCIPLES

In the provision of humanitarian assistance and protection to IDPs, humanitarian actors and service providers shall be guided by the following core principles:

1. Principle of Humanity and the Humanitarian Imperative: This policy requires that human suffering of internally displaced persons be addressed in all its forms wherever found. In the event of intervening in preventing or mitigating the impact of internal displacement, affected persons must be treated with dignity, and be seen as human beings and not just some vulnerable hopeless victims of circumstance requiring assistance. The purpose of humanitarian action is to protect life and health and ensure respect for human beings. Humanitarian actors, whether state or non-state, must therefore endeavor to respect the culture, structures, and customs of the communities and displaced population with which they work. This principle underscores the right to receive and to give humanitarian assistance.

2. Principle of Neutrality: This policy requires that in the course of protecting and assisting internally displaced persons or providing services, humanitarian actors must maintain neutrality and not take sides in hostilities or engage in controversies of a political, racial, ethnic, religious or ideological nature.
3. Principle of Impartiality and Non-discrimination: In implementing the provisions of this policy, humanitarian action targeting internally displaced populations must be carried out based on need alone, giving priority to the most urgent cases of distress and making no distinctions based on ethnicity, Indigenous group, gender, religious belief, social class or political persuasion.
4. Principle of independence: Humanitarian agencies, whether local or international, are required by this policy to act independently and must never knowingly-or through negligence - allow themselves, or their employees, to be used to gather information of a political, military or economically sensitive nature for governments or other bodies that may serve purposes other than those which are strictly humanitarian, nor act instrumentally in advancing the foreign policies of donor governments that could be injurious to Nigeria. Similarly, the provision of aid must not exploit the vulnerability of victims of internal displacement and be used to further any political or religious objectives. On the other hand, the Government of Adamawa State, armed groups and community leaders are obliged to grant unrestricted access by humanitarian agencies to any locations in the state where internally displaced persons are found or are in need of protection and assistance, without undue interference, including areas not directly under their control.
5. Principle of Protection from Harm and Abuse: In protecting internally displaced persons, humanitarian actors must avoid exposing people affected during displacement to further harm; for example, by building settlements for displaced people in unsafe areas. This principle is also concerned with protection from violence, force, or inducement to act against one's will, e.g., to take up arms, to be forcibly removed from a place to be prevented from moving, or to be subjected to degrading treatment or punishment. It is also concerned with preventing or mitigating physical and psychological harm, including sexual abuse or exploitation, the spread of fear, and the deliberate creation of terror or panic. Humanitarian actions should include helping affected people to claim their entitlements and access remedies such as legal redress, compensation, or restitution of property, as well as helping people recover from and overcome the effects of abuse whether physical, psychological, social, or economic.

This policy requires that in the discharge of their responsibilities as host communities to internally displaced persons, the host communities shall be protected from harm and harmful conduct by the IDPs or other aggressors attacking them on account of their hosting IDPs. In the event of such hostility from IDPs or aggressors to IDPs, host communities shall be protected by the state including but not limited to the prosecution of the IDPs or aggressors responsible for the hostility.

CHAPTER THREE

RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF IDPS

This chapter seeks to outline the rights and obligations of IDPs consistent with Nigeria's constitutional and treaty obligations.

RIGHTS OF IDPS

Persons affected by displacement situations experience a wide variety of needs in the short, medium and long terms. These include food, water, shelter and other essential items, such as security, physical and psychological well-being, assistance in restoring family links, healthcare, education, economic and social rehabilitation.

People are especially vulnerable when they are displaced, whatever the cause of the displacement. They are deprived, often brutally, of their ordinary environment, and this directly threatens their ability to meet their most basic needs, especially when families are torn apart or when relatives are killed or missing.

For humanitarian action to be effective, it is paramount to consider all the needs of IDPs at every stage of their displacement. Only a comprehensive approach can ensure that assistance and protection — two interlocking aspects of effective humanitarian operations— are provided simultaneously. The needs of IDPs cannot be strictly divided into categories or sectors.

1. General and Specific Rights

- i. All rights contained in the Constitution of Federal Republic of Nigeria 1999 (as amended), statutes and domesticated sub-regional, regional and international human rights and humanitarian treaties, which all citizens of Nigeria are entitled to, shall be applicable to all internally displaced persons in Adamawa State.
- ii. All IDPs have the right to enjoy in full equality, the same rights and freedoms under both international and domestic laws as do all other citizens and persons in Nigeria. However, non-citizens may not be eligible to vote and be voted for in local elections unless the law expressly entitles them to

2. IDPs shall have:
 - i The right to seek safety in another part of the state and be received without discrimination of any kind.
 - ii The right to leave their community.
 - iii The right to seek asylum in another community or state within Nigeria and
 - iv The right to be protected against forcible return to or relocation in any place where their life, safety, liberty and/ or health would be at risk or intimidation.
3. IDPs have a right to request and receive protection and assistance from the Federal, state and local authorities and shall not be punished or persecuted for making such a request.
4. Vulnerable IDPs shall have a right to receive protection and assistance required by their condition or special needs Such vulnerable IDPs shall include children (including separated, unaccompanied and orphaned children), women (including nursing mothers, expectant mothers and female heads of households), persons with special needs (disabilities), and the elderly.

RIGHT TO PROTECTION FROM DISPLACEMENT

1. Every person shall have a right not to be arbitrarily displaced from his or her home or place of habitual residence All acts of arbitrary displacements as defined above in this policy are, therefore, specifically prohibited.
2. In situations of eviction, despite due consultations and participation of affected persons, all the following guarantees should be put in place by the government authorities effecting the eviction prior to its execution:
 - A specific decision authorizing the evictions has been taken by the relevant government authority empowered by law to order such measures.
 - An opportunity for genuine consultation with those affected, including public hearings on the proposed eviction plans and alternatives.
3. Adequate and reasonable notice prior to the scheduled date of eviction.
4. The timely provision of information in an accessible format on the eviction process, future use of the land and relocation plans for affected persons.
5. The presence of government officials during an eviction.

6. The proper identification and registration of all persons being evicted.
7. The proper identification of all persons carrying out the eviction.
8. The prohibition of evictions during bad weather or at night.
9. Provision of legal remedies including provision of affected persons and their advocates with opportunities to challenge the eviction decision and/or to present alternative proposals and to articulate their demands and development priorities.
10. Provision of adequate compensation for loss of properties and inconveniences resulting from the evictions based on comprehensive assessment reports and
11. Provision of legal aid by the Legal Aid Council and other agencies providing pro-bono legal aid services to affected persons, where needed, to seek redress from the courts.
12. In cases of armed conflict, displacement of the civilian population for reasons related to the conflict is prohibited, unless the safety and security of civilians involved or imperative military reasons so demand. While in the case of disasters, residents may require evacuation for their safety and health should such displacements have to be carried out, all possible measures shall be taken in order that the civilian population may be received under satisfactory conditions of shelter, hygiene, health, safety and nutrition. The displacement must be limited in time to that which is necessary to ensure the safety of the population.
13. Displacement shall not be carried out in a manner that violates the rights to life, dignity, liberty, security of the person of IDPs.

RIGHT TO PROTECTION AND ASSISTANCE DURING AND AFTER DISPLACEMENT

During displacements, in addition to their other existing rights, IDPs have right to their physical security and integrity, basic necessities, civil and political rights, economic, social and cultural rights and right to, or restoration of their property including lands. The right to life shall be fully protected by law Amongst others, all civilians, including IDPs shall, under no circumstance, become the target of an attack during armed conflict, their presence should be factored into the proportionality assessment and the precautions that must be taken before and during an attack IDPs shall be protected in particular against genocide, ethnic cleansing, murder, summary or arbitrary executions, enforced disappearances as well as from threats to commit any of the aforementioned acts. IDPs shall also be protected from acts of violence when they are not participating in hostilities Starvation shall not be used as a method of combat. IDPs shall not be used as human shields, nor shall land mines or other prohibited weapons be used against them.

Specifically, IDPs have the following rights during displacement:

1. Consistent with the right to dignity of persons, as guaranteed by law, IDPs shall be protected against all forms of sexual and gender-based violence, torture, inhuman treatment or punishment, slavery.
2. In any form, trafficking in persons, forced labour and acts of violence intended to spread terror among internally displaced persons.
3. The right to liberty and security of every person is guaranteed. No one shall be arbitrarily arrested or detained. IDPs shall not be interned in camps If confinement is necessary, it shall not last longer than absolutely necessary and warranted by exigencies Such confinement must cease immediately the necessity or exigency ends IDPs shall not be taken hostage.
4. Displaced children shall not be recruited as child soldiers or permitted to take part in hostilities Cruel, inhuman, and degrading practices that compel compliance with recruitment shall be prohibited always.
5. Every internally displaced person shall have the right to freedom of movement in and out of camps or settlements, and freedom to choose where he/she will reside, unless restrictions on such movement and residence are necessary, justified and proportionate to the requirements of ensuring security for IDPs or maintaining public security, public order and public health. Restrictions on movement must be temporary and must only be implemented when absolutely necessary. They should be implemented in a non-discriminatory manner and should strike a balance between the rights and needs of IDPs (including livelihoods) and security considerations.
6. The right of IDPs to know the fate of missing relatives is enshrined in this policy.

7. Under the Human Rights & Protection Sector established by this Adamawa State Policy in collaboration with Federal Government Agencies, The National Commission for Refugees, Migrants and Internally Displaced Persons (where it is not the sector lead), Security Agencies, other relevant authorities and international humanitarian agencies shall endeavor to establish the fate and location of IDPs reported missing, and shall cooperate with international organizations that are engaged in this task IDPs must be informed of any progress in this type of investigation. Authorities concerned shall endeavor to collect and identify mortal remains of the deceased, prevent their mutilation and disposal, and endeavor to return those remains to next-of-kin wherever possible. Grave sites should be protected and marked for easy identification (depending on needs and religion beliefs). Except where hostilities may resume due to access to grave sites, such access should be granted.
8. Respect for family unity and life should be guaranteed for all human beings. Proper accommodation should be provided to the greatest extent possible; members of the same family should not be separated All efforts should be made to reunite families quickly. The relevant IDPs camp management authorities should make all efforts to respond to enquiries by families and should facilitate the work of local, national and international organizations involved in family reunification While in camps, IDPs are entitled to the sanctity of normal family relationships.
9. All IDPs shall have the right to an adequate standard of living. At the minimum and without discrimination, relevant authorities shall provide IDPs with safe access to essential food and water, basic shelter and housing, appropriate clothing, and essential medical services and sanitation; also, gender-sensitive women should be full participants in the distribution of these supplies. Good conditions of safety, nutrition, health, and hygiene should be ensured.
10. All persons (including IDPS) have the right to receive healthcare; therefore, the disruption to healthcare services should be minimized. All wounded and disabled IDPs shall receive medical care to the fullest extent practicable which shall include psychological and social services whenever necessary. Health personnel should be able to provide healthcare safely while safeguarding the legitimate security concerns of fighting forces Special provision should be made for female healthcare needs.

Attention should also be given to contagious and infectious diseases including HIV/AIDS among IDPs, Malaria, Referral and IDP Health Insurance.

11. Every human being including IDPs has the right to recognition as a person before the law Therefore, the relevant authorities (including the Nigeria Immigration Services, the National Identity Management Commission, Independent National Electoral Commission, Nigeria Police Force, Federal Road Safety Commission, Local Government.
12. Authorities, and any other institutions, shall ensure that all IDPs are issued all documents necessary for the enjoyment of their legal rights. This shall include the issuance of passports or other travel documents, national or personal identification documents, drivers' licenses, voters' cards, birth certificates, marriage certificates, and other related documents.
13. Authorities should issue replacement of documents as required by IDPs without the imposition of unreasonable conditions, such as requiring the return to former residences to obtain such documents. Women and men shall have equal rights to obtain documentation, and to have it issued in their own names.
14. No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of property and possessions The property and possession of IDPs shall be protected from pillage, direct and/or indiscriminate attacks, being used as shields for military operations, objects of reprisal, or as a form of collective punishment.
15. IDPs, regardless of whether they live in camps or not, shall enjoy the right to freedom of thought, conscience, religion, belief, opinion or expression.
16. The right to seek employment or participate in economic activities.
17. The right to vote and be voted for in their places of displacement, relocation or return and participate in government or civic affairs; and the right to communicate in a language they understand IDPs shall also have the right to associate freely with other persons.
18. Every human being has the right to an education. The Education Sector lead under the sector approach established by this policy shall liaise with other relevant education authorities and humanitarian agencies to ensure that all IDP children receive education that shall be free and compulsory at the primary level Education should respect their cultural identity, language and religion Special efforts should be made to encourage the full participation of women and girls in educational and training programmes.

For the purposes of this Policy and for the avoidance of doubt, anywhere reference is made to the responsibility of State Security agencies to secure the lives of people and property, such agencies shall include but are not limited to the Nigeria Police Force, the Military, the Nigeria Security and Civil Defense Corps, and the State Security Services or other relevant security agencies by whatever name called

RIGHTS OF INTERNALLY DISPLACED CHILDREN

Internally displaced children shall be entitled to the full enjoyment of their rights under the Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria 1999 (as amended), statutes and domesticated sub regional, regional and international human rights and humanitarian instruments Internally displaced children shall, in particular, enjoy their rights under the Child Rights Act/Law and similar laws enacted at the Federal, State and Local Government levels.

It has been observed that some children lose their only living parent or both parents during communal conflicts and disasters. This naturally leads to the problem of establishing their true identities.

However, in this Adamawa State Policy, the government hereby asserts as follows:

- a. That every child has the right to a name and he/she also has a right to be identified with the community of his/her birth, where possible.
- b. That every child has the right to be reunited with his/her family, until all available means are exhausted to locate them. In the event that none of the efforts avail and all means are exhausted, only then can a child be considered as an orphan.
- c. In the event where no living relatives of displaced children are to be found, Government must ensure that unaccompanied minors are resettled in a safe space under the care and protection of approved or designated organizations.

- d. To ensure his/her proper upbringing, an internally displaced child who is orphaned could be adopted in the best interest and welfare of the child and in accordance with the law

In such a case:

- i. The new parents must ensure that he/she attains full educational development as their biological children.
 - ii. That the child shall not be subjected to child abuse.
 - iii. That the child shall be fully integrated into the family and treated equally like other biological children.
 - iv. That the child shall be entitled to honours such as traditional titles where he/she merits it and shall not be discriminated against just because of his/her being an internally displaced child.
 - v. Under no circumstance shall the child be reminded that he/she is adopted from an internal displacement camp.
 - vi. That the adoption of the child is perpetual, not reversible and non-renounceable
- e. As an alternative to adoption, and while efforts to locate the family of an unaccompanied or separated child are ongoing, a child could also be fostered and have access to all rights such as education and inheritance (based on religion affiliation) under Nigerian Legal System.
 - f. It is the policy of the government not to discourage internally displaced children from communicating in their native language or any other language of their choice.
 - g. Under no circumstance shall an internally displaced child be used for street hawking, forced labour or any other forms of child exploitation.
 - h. Internally displaced children shall be entitled to good medical care and immunization against diseases that may cause death, retard their growth or affect their general wellbeing.
 - i. Because of the peculiar situation of internally displaced children, it is the policy of the state government to ensure their full integration into the society. Internally displaced children shall not be ascribed as belonging to any caste system.

- j. This State Policy shall ensure that internally displaced children (persons below the age of 18) are protected against torture, sexual exploitation, drug abuse, as well as forced marriage.
- k. This National Policy shall ensure the protection of children in exceptionally difficult circumstances. This means that a special regime shall be established for the protection of children in such difficult circumstances which shall include but not be limited to orphans, children with health challenges and children with disabilities.
- l. Internally displaced children are entitled to inherit the property of their biological parents. In case both parents are lost in conflicts, disaster or any other cause in the course of displacement, the Human Rights and Protection Sector lead agency as established by this policy in conjunction with relevant state and local government agencies shall take adequate measures to ensure that the law protects their orphan status and their inheritance.
- m. Internally displaced children are entitled to access new or replacement of documents, including those necessary for access to education, healthcare and other essential services, such as birth certificates, school certificates and any other necessary official documents. However, where such documentation is not available, this should not prevent the child from accessing these essential services.
- n. Schools are often destroyed during most disasters; therefore, in order for the Internally Displaced Children to return to school while in displacement, the Education Sector lead agency under the sectoral approach established by this State Policy shall liaise with relevant agencies within the locality to assist in relocating the children to neighboring schools that are ascertained to be safe. This shall not preclude the building of new schools in the place of relocation.
- o. It shall also be the responsibility of the Education Sector lead agency under the sectoral approach established by this State Policy to work in conjunction with local and state education authorities to create a conducive learning environment for Internally Displaced Children by collaborating with UNICEF and other education agencies to provide instructional materials and teaching aids for the schools.
- p. Where formal education facilities are not available, informal education options including livelihood skills training should be provided for internally displaced children including through the Alternate School Program (ASP) While providing access to education, specific attention should be paid to girlchild education, as they are most likely to miss out on the basis of gender dynamics.

- q. The Human Rights, Child Protection and Protection Sector lead agency(ies) under the sectoral approach established by this National Policy shall liaise with UNICEF and other relevant agencies and ministries to ensure the protection and care of displaced children, with particular attention to orphaned, HIV infected/affected and unaccompanied children, as well as child-heads of households and children with disabilities or those with other debilitating conditions.
- r. The Human Rights and Protection Sector lead agency under the sectoral approach established by this National Policy shall promote children's rights to survival, development, participation and protection, relevant government agencies responsible for child welfare in collaboration with UNICEF and other humanitarian agencies should facilitate the establishment of child friendly spaces in camps as an essential means for providing integrated care for children who have been traumatized during conflicts or disasters should be provided with appropriate psychosocial support.
- s. The Human Rights and Protection Sector lead agency under the sectoral approach established by this State Policy shall work closely with relevant agencies and the camp administrators to ensure the safety and security of children, including protecting them from sexual molestation, child labour, abduction by armed groups, trafficking and forced prostitution.
- t. The Rights, Child Protection and Protection Sector lead agency under the sectoral approach established by this State Policy shall work closely with the International Committee of the Red Cross, the Nigerian Red Cross Society and other humanitarian agencies to carry out activities aimed at restoring family links between unaccompanied and separated children and their relatives.

RIGHT OF INTERNALLY DISPLACED WOMEN

Conscious of the fact that women are specifically vulnerable group among IDPs and that some of them have been victims of different forms of indignity and abuse, the State Government, through this Policy, without prejudice to the national gender policy, hereby provides as follows:

- a. That the sanctity of womanhood in Adamawa State shall not be violated.
- b. Internally displaced women shall have the right to their privacy.
- c. Internally displaced women shall not be subjected to any form of indignity; including beating, forced labour, sexual abuse, harassment or exploitation, or forceful stripping either for medical examination or other reasons whatsoever without her consent. In any case, where physical examination is required for medical or security reasons, female IDPs should be examined by female personnel.
- d. Under no circumstance shall women and men be lumped together in a room except as husband and wife or as members of the same family.
- e. It is the policy of government to protect Internally Displaced Women from forced marriage. Thus, nobody shall determine the partner of, or the period within which internally displaced women ought to get married.
- f. Internally displaced women shall be encouraged and entitled to hold any position of authority in IDPs leadership committees without any form of discrimination, ensuring at least 50% representative roles or other leadership positions.
- g. Internally displaced women shall be free to take micro-credit and other financial assistance with the consent of their husbands for economic self-reliance.
- h. Internally displaced women have the right to own property and dispose the property with or without the consent of their spouses subject to their religion affiliation rules.
- i. Internally displaced woman has the right to embark on any form of lawful economic activity of her choice to enhance her well-being and that of her family.
- j. Internally displaced women are entitled to self-development, particularly in the area of education and skills acquisition.

RIGHT OF INTERNALLY DISPLACED PERSONS OF SPECIAL NEEDS (WITH DISABILITIES)

All wounded, infirm IDPs and IDPs with disability shall receive medical care to the extent practicable which shall include psychological and social services whenever necessary.

In order to access their rights in displacement camps, persons with disabilities need specific support due to their peculiar situations related to their disabilities. They may have less access to their rights and the humanitarian assistance provided for IDPs if the following barriers exist:

- a. Lack of mobility aids.
- b. Lack of information in a format which they understand; and
- c. Lack of accessible physical environment

The following needs of Persons with disabilities to enable them access their rights as IDPs should be provided by the relevant sector lead agencies established by this National Policy:

1. Modified Physical Environment: In the construction of camp infrastructure, provision should be made for entrance ramps, non-slipper floors, wide entrances/exits and wide lavatories that can accommodate wheelchairs. Provision of these will aid their access to sleeping areas, conveniences and dispensaries.
2. Assistive/Mobility Devices: Internally displaced persons in need of assistive and mobility devices should be provided with such, including wheelchairs, walking canes, evacuating chairs, walkers, crutches, hearing aid equipment. Provision of these will facilitate their movement and afford them some independence.
3. Trained Personnel & Specialized Medical Care: Internally displaced persons with disability in need of specialized care should be provided with such, including caregivers to assist those with ambulatory problems or intellectual and developmental disabilities. Sign language interpreters are to be provided to aid communication with the deaf physiotherapists especially for those who have newly acquired disability (e.g. amputees) during the crises that displaced them. Persons with mental or psychosocial disabilities should be provided with psychiatrist support.

4. Access to information: All information should be provided in formats that are accessible to IDPs with disability (e.g. converted into Braille for the visually impaired).
5. Children with disabilities: Internally displaced children with disability should be enrolled in nearby special schools that meet their specific needs (e.g. schools for the visual and hearing impaired, mentally challenged, etc.) to protect their right to education
6. Prioritizing persons with disability in service delivery: Persons with disability should be prioritized in water, food and other supplies distribution queues. Where there are persons who cannot afford mobility or are housebound, mobile distribution systems should be provided to reach them.
7. The National Commission for Persons with Disabilities together with the protection sector lead agencies established by this policy through the sectoral approach should be empowered to carry out activities aimed at restoring the dignity and protection of persons living with disabilities

RIGHT OF INTERNALLY DISPLACED PERSONS LIVING WITH HIV (PLHIV)

Special attention should also be given to contagious and infectious diseases including HIV/AIDS among IDPs Under no circumstance should persons living with HIV/AIDS or who have other contagious and infectious diseases be discriminated against either on account of their health conditions or in the provision of social or health services. They have a right not to be discriminated against on any of the above grounds as well as under the 1999 Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria 1999 (as amended) and other relevant human rights and humanitarian laws.

All sector-lead agencies established by this State Policy shall mainstream HIV and AIDS into their protection and assistance interventions and shall work in collaboration with relevant government agencies responsible for AIDS control at all levels (National Agency for the Control of AIDS (NACA), State Agencies for the Control of AIDS (SACA), Local Agencies for the Control of AIDS (LACA) and international humanitarian agencies, non-governmental organisations, and local community-based support groups to ensure that:

1. Displaced persons living with HIV have access to purified water and hygienic food and sanitary environment to avoid contaminations which could lead to opportunistic infections caused by their compromised immunity.
2. Displaced persons living with HIV have access to adequate care and support services including psychosocial support.
3. Children orphaned by AIDS are given special attention and care.
4. Displaced persons living with HIV and their families, including children affected by AIDS, are not discriminated against or stigmatized in any way.
5. Displaced persons living with HIV have access to condoms and positive living education, including information on positive prevention to mitigate the risk of infecting their partners or re-infecting themselves.
6. Women living with HIV have access to prevention of mother-to-child services and information, including family planning, treatment and infant feeding options to avoid infecting their new-born babies.
7. Displaced persons living with HIV have access to treatment, including Anti-Retroviral drugs (ARVs) and treatment for opportunistic infections Availability of oral rehydration therapy, long-lasting insecticide treated bed nets and water purifying systems shall also be provided to them as a matter of priority and primary importance.
8. Confidentiality of data and information on displaced persons living with HIV is maintained and only disclosed with informed consent, to avoid stigma and discrimination.

RIGHTS OF INTERNALLY DISPLACED ELDERLY PERSONS

Elderly Persons Displacement poses serious challenges and infringement on the rights of older persons especially those in their sixties and above Sometimes, in the flight phase of emergencies, families have to make the painful choice of leaving them behind as opportunity cost for saving children and younger people. Most humanitarian efforts do not plan for or take displaced elderly persons into consideration, and their needs are largely unmet in collective shelters and re-settlement camps. Research has shown that older people are more resistant to displacement, rather preferring to stay behind to protect family assets and livelihoods.

This policy recognizes the vulnerability of older persons before, during and after displacement, and therefore guarantees their human rights. All relevant sector lead agencies established by this State Policy shall work in collaboration with relevant government, state, national and international humanitarian agencies, and civil society organisations to protect and guarantee their rights by ensuring that:

1. Older persons left behind during flight by family members in times of emergency are accessed and evacuated (with their consent – depending on their status in life) and family unity is reinstated as soon as possible.
2. Older persons who choose to stay behind are not stigmatized and are able to benefit from assistance from state authorities.
3. Relevant identification and documentation are obtained for older persons in displacement.
4. Land and housing rights of older persons are protected during and after displacement especially for widows and elderly women.
5. The basic needs of older persons in displacement including nutrition, shelter (including mattresses, blankets, warm clothing, tent, raincoats, etc.), water, sanitation and specialized healthcare are provided for during and after displacement.
6. Older persons in displacement are reunited with their families, and they are provided with adequate social support systems.
7. Older persons livelihoods, support systems and mean of income generation are rebuilt, especially those providing care to younger children whose parents might have been lost prior to or during displacement.
8. Older persons in displacement are provided with relevant psychosocial support, palliative care and post-traumatic counselling since they are most likely to suffer post-traumatic stress disorders.

9. Transportation and mobility are provided to elderly persons during evacuation and displacement following emergencies, disasters, violence and conflicts or other causes of displacement.
10. Special queues are provided for older people at food distribution and health centres to avoid their being stampeded or pushed down by large crowds struggling for same services on a "survival of the fittest basis."
11. "Social spaces" are created in camps, collective shelters and host communities where older people can meet to interact, solve problems, share experiences, gain literacy skills, obtain livelihood support and reduce isolation. This gives them social support that helps to restore their dignity and respect within the internal displacement community.
12. Older people have access to official communications and information disseminated in the camps, by providing information in local dialects and using interpreters to make sure that elderly persons are not left out in planning and delivery of humanitarian services.
13. Water containers are provided in smaller sizes and with handles that can easily be carried by older persons.
14. Camp and shelter facilities are accessible and safe for older persons e.g. provided with rails, non-slippery floors, etc.
15. Displaced older women are protected from physical and sexual abuse, including all forms of gender-based violence and discrimination.

While the above measures are to protect the rights of older persons and ensure their safety, security and welfare during and after displacement, it is worth noting that older persons are amongst the most willing to return to their places of origin due to the strong ties to their lands, farms, homes and property. In pursuing durable solutions, the relevant agencies shall prioritize older persons in the provision of comprehensive return packages for displaced persons to sustain and support return and relocation as provided above.

RIGHTS OF IDPS DURING RETURN, RELOCATION AND REINTEGRATION

IDPs shall have the right to decide if they want to return to their homes or places of habitual residence, be integrated into the host community, be relocated to another place within the country or seek asylum in another country.

State authorities shall support IDPs in making an informed decision regarding return, local integration or relocation by providing accurate and up to date information about the situation in the place of return, local integration and relocation, including in relation to security risks and access to basic services. In addition to any other rights enumerated in any other part of this Policy, IDPs who choose to return, be integrated locally or relocated within the country shall specifically have the following rights:

The right not to be discriminated against on account of the displacement

- The right to participate fully in public affairs, access to public services and to vote and be voted for
- The right to own property wherever durable solution has been achieved for them like other Nigerians under the Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria 1999 (as amended) and other relevant laws.
- The right to any special or general existing empowerment initiatives of the government.

Whether they choose to return or be relocated or re-integrated, IDPs shall be entitled to a comprehensive rehabilitation package with priority given to the elderly Relevant national sector lead agencies shall therefore ensure that internally displaced persons have access to appropriate packages for return, local integration or relocation based on needs assessment including shelter, food packages, provision of household items and transportation for vulnerable persons with special needs

OBLIGATIONS OF IDPS

Like all citizens, IDPs have an obligation to be law-abiding citizens IDPs shall take responsibility for the commission of individual and group crimes during the events leading to displacement and thereafter Specifically, IDPs shall be responsible for the following:

1. Individual criminal responsibility under the state, national and international law.
2. Individual criminal responsibility for genocide, war crimes and crimes against humanity.
3. Individual and group crimes of a very serious nature as defined under national and state laws.
4. Respect the culture and norms of host communities.
5. Abide by rules and regulations in collective settlements

CHAPTER FOUR

RESPONSIBILITIES OF GOVERNMENT, HUMANITARIAN

AGENCIES, HOST COMMUNITIES AND ARMED GROUPS TO IDPS

This chapter seeks to outline the various responsibilities of government at the federal, state and local levels to prevent internal displacement, protect and assist IDPs in Adamawa State

OBLIGATIONS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF GOVERNMENT

In the event of displacement of minor magnitude, the State Government through ADSEMA will take primary responsibility in coordination of line MDAs and Local Government (LEMC) when the need arises; while and in the event of major displacement, the Federal Government (NEMA) will activate all response measures in collaboration with the State Government.

Government at all levels is considered the primary duty bearer with the responsibility of protecting and assisting internally displaced persons (IDP's) Such protection will be responsive, i.e. aiming to prevent imminent or stop on-going violations; remedial, i.e. aiming to provide redress (e.g. access to justice, reparation or rehabilitation) for past violations; or environment-building, i.e. aiming at creating the necessary legal and institutional framework, capacity and awareness that is necessary to promote respect for human rights of internally displaced persons (IDP's) and prevent future violations

In the above context, international human rights law imposes on government three major obligations with regards to ensuring the realization of the rights of internally displaced persons (IDP's):

1. The obligation to respect the human rights of internally displaced persons, i.e. to refrain from actively violating them.
2. The obligation to protect such rights, i.e. to intervene and take protective action on behalf of the victims of internal displacement against threats by others or stemming from their displaced situation.

3. The obligation to fulfil these rights, i.e. to provide goods and services necessary to allow internally displaced persons to fully enjoy their rights; and to discharge these obligations without discrimination

In addition, the Kampala Convention imposes on Government the following specific obligations towards IDPs:

1. Respect and ensure respect for their obligations under international human rights and humanitarian law, so as to prevent and avoid conditions that might lead to the arbitrary displacement of persons.
2. Ensure individual government responsibility to protect all persons against arbitrary displacement.
3. Shall declare as offences punishable by law, acts of arbitrary displacement that amount to genocide, war crimes or crimes against humanity.

In line with the above obligations, this policy therefore amplifies government commitment to take all necessary actions and put in place strategies and mechanisms for addressing the challenges of internal displacement in Adamawa State. This commitment places on government and its relevant ministries, departments and agencies the responsibilities to put in place effective measures and strategies for:

1. Preventing all causes of displacement in Adamawa State and minimizing its adverse effects.
2. Raising national awareness of the problems of displacement, as well as the obligations of state authorities to assist and protect IDPs as set out under the Kampala Convention.
3. Collecting data on the number and conditions of internally displaced persons in Adamawa State.
4. Supporting training on the rights of internally displaced persons among all relevant government authorities, host communities and the IDPs themselves.
5. Creating a legal framework for upholding the rights of internally displaced persons including domestication and implementation of the Kampala Convention.
6. Implementing and continuously reviewing state policy on internal displacement.

7. Creating the institutional framework for effectively coordinating all interventions targeting all phases of internal displacement in Nigeria.
8. Empowering and ensuring that the National Human Rights Commission, Legal Aid Council, security agencies and other relevant agencies adequately integrate internal displacement into their work.
9. Ensuring the active participation of internally displaced persons in decision-making;
10. Supporting durable solutions from prevention of displacement to long term development goals.
11. Allocating adequate resources to tackling the problem of internal displacement through the various intervening ministries, departments and agencies of government.
12. Seeking and strengthening cooperation with the international community when national capacity is insufficient to address the challenges of internal displacement.
13. Putting in place measures to protect properties left behind by IDPs; and
14. Mainstreaming protection and protection activities in all multi-sectoral interventions

OBLIGATIONS OF HUMANITARIAN AGENCIES

COMPLIANCE WITH THE LAW AND POLICY GUIDELINES

This policy recognizes the important roles that humanitarian agencies play in supporting relevant government authorities to fulfil their obligations to protect and assist internally displaced persons in Adamawa State. In the course of discharging their obligations, local and international NGOs, Intergovernmental agencies, UN agencies and all other humanitarian actors shall carry out their duties in conformity with international law and the laws of the Federal Republic of Nigeria. All humanitarian assistance shall be provided in compliance with the principles of humanity and humanitarian imperative, viz: neutrality, impartiality and non-discrimination, independence and protection from harm and abuse underlying this policy. They shall act in the best interest of the internally displaced persons and shall be guided by the provisions of this policy and Article 6 of the Kampala Convention.

In developing and delivering programmes and services to IDPs, International Humanitarian Organisations operating in Nigeria shall apply localization principles with a view to mainstreaming clear exit strategies.

CODE OF CONDUCT AND STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURES

In providing protection and assistance to Internally Displaced Persons, international organizations and humanitarian agencies shall respect the rights of such IDPs in accordance with the code of conduct and Standard Operating Procedures for workers providing humanitarian protection and assistance as developed by IDP Focal institution (ADSEMA)

Furthermore, these agencies should be encouraged to incorporate the code of conduct and standards into their respective codes of conduct and staff rules and regulations. Mechanisms to ensure that these standards and principles are promoted, disseminated and integrated into personnel requirements, administrative standards and agreements with partners and contractors must also be established. In addition, humanitarian agencies would have to evolve mechanisms for reporting complaints, investigative procedures and disciplinary processes for ensuring compliance

ADHERENCE TO MINIMUM STANDARDS

In providing protection and assistance to Internally Displaced Persons, international organizations and humanitarian agencies shall adhere to the Core Sphere "process and people" Minimum Standards that are relevant to each technical sector. These Sectoral Sphere Minimum Standards include:

1. Minimum standards in water, sanitation and hygiene promotion.
2. Minimum standards in food security, nutrition and food aid; Minimum standards in shelter, settlement and non-food items.
3. Minimum standards in health services

However, the minimum standards common to all sectors shall include:

1. Participation: The displaced population actively participates in the assessment, design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of the assistance programmes.
2. Initial Assessment: Assessments provide an understanding of the disaster situation and a clear analysis of threats to life, dignity, health and livelihoods to determine, in consultation with the relevant authorities, whether an external response is required and, if so, the nature of the response.
3. Response: A humanitarian response is required in situations where the relevant authorities are unable and/or unwilling to respond to the protection and assistance needs of the population on the territory over which they have control, and when assessment and analysis indicate that these needs are unmet.
4. Targeting: Humanitarian assistance or services are provided equitably and impartially, based on the vulnerability and needs of individuals or groups affected by disaster
5. Monitoring: The effectiveness of the programme in responding to problems is identified; and changes in the broader context are continually monitored, with a view to improving the programme or phasing it out as required.
6. Evaluation: There is a systematic and impartial examination of humanitarian action, intended to draw lessons to improve practice and policy and to enhance accountability
7. Aid worker competencies & responsibilities: Aid workers possess appropriate qualifications, attitudes and experience to plan and effectively implement appropriate programmes.
8. Supervision, management and support of personnel: Aid workers receive adequate supervision and support to ensure effective implementation of the humanitarian assistance programme.

RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS OF HOST COMMUNITIES

When displacement occurs, those displaced either relocate on their own to a receiving community that hosts them or are relocated by government authorities to an alternative location. A number of reasons determine where people relocate to Most IDPs displaced by conflicts or disasters will relocate to areas where there is safety, relative stability with little or no violence. Many others relocate to areas where they have a connection to people in the receiving community based on tribal, ethnic, sectarian, or familial affiliations or through existing relationships between people in the community and some of the displaced people This policy, therefore, recognizes and provides for the rights and obligations of such IDP host communities as part of government measures to achieving durable solutions

RIGHTS OF HOST COMMUNITIES

While internal displacement exposes those displaced to peculiar risks, the communities receiving and accommodating displaced persons either on temporary or long-term (integration) basis also bear the brunt of displacement Most often, interventions have targeted displaced populations and neglected the needs of the host communities Some interventions even become the cause of conflict and hostility between displaced persons and host communities It is, therefore, the policy of government to encourage community-based approaches to internal displacement response that take into consideration the responsibilities of government and humanitarian agencies towards protection and assistance of IDP host communities and the full realization of their human rights based on adequate needs assessment

The Government of Nigeria and humanitarian agencies have key responsibilities towards respecting, protecting and fulfilling the rights of host communities of internally displaced persons in line with the principles of impartiality and non-discrimination, including the following:

SOCIO-ECONOMIC RIGHTS

1. As pan of conflict prevention and peace building efforts, relevant sector lead agencies, under the sectoral approach established by this policy, shall collaborate with other intervening agencies to ensure expanded capacity of the host communities' infrastructure and services to accommodate extra IDP population, including recruitment of more personnel and construction of social infrastructure including water supply, healthcare facilities, schools, etc. that will reduce pressure on existing infrastructure caused by influx of internally displaced persons.

2. Host communities are entitled to enjoy literacy and health promotion initiatives targeting IDPs.
3. Relevant sector lead agencies shall ensure the expansion of economic opportunities for host communities including employing them as casual staff in relocation camps, provision of slots to benefit from skills acquisition training programmes for IDPs, etc. They should, as much as possible, also be included in income generating activities and livelihood support programmes targeting IDPs.
4. Host communities have the right to security of life and property: Relevant sector lead agencies shall ensure support for local community security structures to augment efforts of security agencies in host communities, IDP camps and settlements
- 3 Host communities have the right to adequate and appropriate compensation: Relevant Sector lead agencies shall ensure adequate and appropriate compensation of host communities by relevant authorities for land used as camp sites for formal settlement of IDPs.

RIGHT TO FOOD SECURITY

Local farmers in the host communities shall be entitled to adequate agricultural support by the Agriculture sub-sector of the Food Aid and Agriculture sector established under the sectoral approach in this policy This will boost local food production and mitigate the impact of influx of IDP population on food security

5 Right to safe environment: Support use of improved fuel stoves, establish tree nurseries and promote environmental education and preservation programmes that will curtail deforestation and cutting down of trees for firewood in IDP Camps.

RIGHT TO QUALITY HEALTH

1. Promote environmental sanitation activities including construction of Ventilated Improved Pit (VIP) toilets in host communities
2. Ensure immunization of children in both host communities and IDP camps to ensure that they are protected from communicable diseases
3. Expand HIV/AIDS prevention and treatment programmes targeting IDPs to benefit host communities

RIGHT TO INFORMATION

Ensure that host communities are involved in the discussions with the authorities and incoming IDPs regarding the identification of best solutions They should remain informed at all times about activities which affect them

RESPONSIBILITIES OF HOST COMMUNITIES

Host communities are important stakeholders in the protection and assistance of internally displaced persons, and therefore have the obligation to cooperate and collaborate with government efforts in:

1. The provision of adequate security and safety for internally displaced persons settled or resident in their communities.
2. The promotion of harmony and integration of internally displaced persons and shall not prevent them from accessing social services available within their communities including education, healthcare, water and sanitation and other social amenities.
3. Ensuring that internally displaced persons resident in their communities are not discriminated against on the basis of ethnicity, religion or culture, and shall not exploit their displacement or vulnerability including differential charges for services or commodities (e.g. house rents, school fees, etc.)
4. The provision of safe space for IDPs in the community, and where land is required for construction of relocation or temporary shelter, shall provide same to government through negotiations with relevant government and humanitarian agencies.

5. Ensuring access by humanitarian agencies, nongovernmental organisations or government officials providing assistance and support to IDPs in their communities.
6. Restoring the environment during the emergency and recovery phases of the displacement.
7. Allowing IDPs the freedom to express their cultural, religious and political beliefs without undue discrimination, molestation or inhibition.
8. Not limiting the lawful movement of IDPs within, into or out of their community, or prevent their access to any part of their community; and
9. The accommodation of IDPs in existing schools, or the evaluation of extra spaces needed, and communication of such needs to relevant government authorities to ensure that they are able to attend school

OBLIGATIONS OF SECURITY AGENCIES

While recognizing the critical role played by armed conflicts and armed groups in causing internal displacement in Adamawa State, the provisions of this policy shall not, in any way whatsoever, be construed as affording legal status or legitimizing or recognizing armed groups. The provisions of this Policy on the obligations of armed groups are without prejudice to the individual criminal responsibility of the members of such groups under domestic or international criminal law. In the event of armed conflicts, members of armed groups shall abide by the provisions of Article 7 of the Kampala Convention of 2009. By this provision, they are under obligation not to:

1. Carry out arbitrary displacement.
2. Hamper the provision of protection and assistance to internally displaced persons under any circumstances.
3. Deny internally displaced persons the right to live in satisfactory conditions of dignity, security, sanitation, food, water, health and shelter, and separating members of the same family.
4. Restrict the freedom of movement of internally displaced persons within and outside their areas of residence.

5. Recruit children or requiring or permitting them to take part in hostilities under any circumstances.
6. Forcibly recruit persons, kidnapping, abduction or hostage taking, engaging in sexual slavery and trafficking in persons especially women and children.
7. Impede humanitarian assistance and passage of all relief consignments, equipment and personnel to internally displaced persons.
8. Attack or otherwise harm humanitarian personnel and resources or other materials deployed for the assistance or benefit of internally displaced persons and shall not destroy, confiscate or divert such materials; and
9. Violate the civilian and humanitarian character of the places where internally displaced persons are sheltered and shall not infiltrate such places

CHAPTER FIVE

POLICY IMPLEMENTATION FRAMEWORK AND STRATEGIES

This chapter aims at outlining the broad implementation strategies, institutional mechanism for coordination and collaboration and necessary legal framework to back up the policy

BROAD STRATEGIES

In order to execute the provisions of this policy, there shall be developed in consultation with all stakeholders including IDPs, international humanitarian agencies and civil society organisations a comprehensive displacement management and implementation framework - CDMIF (which incorporates provisions of the Adamawa State Emergency Management framework and social protection policy), from which the various sectors and institutions shall derive their annual costed plans. There shall also be developed comprehensive monitoring and evaluation framework with clear indicators to assess the progress in the implementation of the CDMIF. In implementing this Policy, a number of broad strategies shall be adopted including the following:

STRATEGIES FOR PREVENTION OF INTERNAL DISPLACEMENT

- a. The relevant agencies and sector leads shall put in place measures to protect the rights of individuals and communities including protection from forced evictions.
- b. ADSEMA should coordinate the relevant Stakeholders from MDAs UNGOs/INGOs, NGOs, CSO etc. to ensure adequate and comprehensive implementation of the National Contingency Plan and National Disaster Management Framework including:
 - i. Establishment and activation of early warning systems.
 - ii. Strengthening of coping mechanism for community resilience against the hazard and preventing possible escalation.
 - iii. Deployment of Disaster Risk Reduction strategies targeting vulnerable populations and communities at-risk.

- iv. Building the capacities of communities on Participatory Vulnerability Analysis (PVA) to enable communities develop their local emergency preparedness and response plans.
- v. Establishment and enforcement of accountability mechanisms including legal frameworks that will hold individuals, institutions and multi-national entities accountable for actions or inactions resulting directly or indirectly in displacement of vulnerable populations.
- vi. Ensure that relevant public authorities are informed about their obligations under international human rights and humanitarian Law and are instructed to respect these bodies of law.
- vii. Deployment of Conflict Prevention and Mitigation strategies that will minimize or eliminate various types of conflicts that displace people and entire communities.
- viii. Development and implementation of measures that will prevent ecological and environmental degradation including climate change and desertification which could cause displacement; and
- ix. Promotion of good governance and reduction in poverty so as to reduce people's vulnerability to displacement.

STRATEGIES FOR PROTECTION AND ASSISTANCE OF IDPS DURING DISPLACEMENT

Adamawa State Emergency Management Agency (ADSEMA) to coordinate other agencies and departments, in collaboration with relevant actors to regularly train persons involved in the evacuation of IDPs or in the management of IDP camps on their obligations vis-à-vis IDPs:

- a. Creation of mechanisms for coordinated management and administration of IDP camps which include IDPs in the decision-making process.
- b. Measures to protect family unity during displacement, including to ensure that families can reside together during displacement and facilitate activities aimed at tracing and reunifying separated family members.

- c. Profiling of IDPs and Data collection for planning of humanitarian assistance and protection interventions in accordance with national, regional and international standards on protection of personal data, including the principles of consent, confidentiality, legality, fairness and use of data for the specific purpose.
- d. Other measures and strategies as may be adopted by humanitarian actors towards protection and assistance of internally displaced persons.
- e. Mechanisms for effective protection of IDPs communities from the effects of natural disasters, violence and armed conflicts and for ensuring their unimpeded access to humanitarian assistance; and
- f. Mechanisms for effective participation of IDPs in the provision of protection and assistance services.
- g. Mechanisms for prompt activation of local and international humanitarian assistance coordination sectors to respond to displacements.
- h. Provision of relief materials and assistance in line with the Sphere Minimum Standards for Humanitarian Assistance in all relevant sectors.
- i. Special protection and assistance provided for women, children, the elderly, persons with disabilities and persons living with HIV/AIDS, in conformity with their rights as laid out in Chapter three of this policy.

STRATEGIES FOR REHABILITATION OF IDPS

- i. Provision of Counselling and Psychosocial Support services.
- ii. Provision of business sensitization and skills
- iii. acquisition trainings for IDPs.
- iv. Restoration of economic livelihoods and food security.
- v. Peacebuilding and conflict mediation/ reconciliation.
- vi. Issuance or re-issuance of documentation; and
- vii. Remedies for IDPs who have suffered from human rights violations

STRATEGIES FOR RETURN, RELOCATION AND LOCAL INTEGRATION OF IDPS

1. Ensure that IDPs make voluntary and informed decisions to return and other practices are not employed that would entice an otherwise unprompted return (e.g. monetary incentives, threats of loss of benefits, disruption of assistance at location of displacement)
2. Provision of comprehensive packages, including startup grants for IDPs who are returning, relocating or integrating locally, based on needs assessments.
3. Ensure that IDPs are provided with accurate, detailed and up-to-date information (in a language that they understand) regarding the situation in the place of return, relocation or integration, including and in relation to:
 - a. Access and security, including the size of the secured area.
 - b. The existence of landmines, (IEDs) Improvised Explosive Devices or (UXOs) Unexploded Ordnance and other impediments to safe and dignified return, relocation or local integration.
 - c. The possibility to resume their regular activities (e.g. farming), viewed in conjunction with the safety in the area.
 - d. The degree of damage or destruction to public and private buildings.
 - e. The existence of services (shelter, food, health, sanitation, water, education) prior to their return (and not the promise of the future provision of such services).
 - f. Documentation requirements and
 - g. Transportation to the place of return, relocation or integration.

SENSITIZATION OF COMMUNITIES IN AREAS OF RETURN, RELOCATION OR LOCAL INTEGRATION

1. Recovery and restoration of lands, houses and other property left behind by IDPs during displacement.
2. Ensuring safety and security prior to, during and after return.
3. Ensuring that family members are not separated

4. during the return, relocation or integration.
5. Reconstruction of shelters and settlements lost during displacement.
6. Provision of sustainable livelihood opportunities.
7. Restoration of social services, infrastructure and amenities.
8. Activation of social protection measures and safety net mechanisms and
9. Communication in advance to humanitarian organisations that are providing services to IDPs, regarding planned movements of those IDPs.

ACHIEVING DURABLE SOLUTIONS TO INTERNAL DISPLACEMENT

The overriding aspiration of this policy is to achieve durable solutions to the problem of internal displacement. According to the Adamawa State Homegrown Durable Solution for Internal Displacement Framework, a durable solution is achieved when internally displaced persons no longer have any specific assistance, and protection needs that are linked to their displacement and can enjoy their human rights without discrimination on account of their displacement.

A number of criteria determine to what extent a durable solution has been achieved. All government agencies with responsibility for protecting and assisting internally displaced persons and other local and international humanitarian actors will, therefore, put in place measures to ensure that all internally displaced persons achieve a durable solution and can enjoy without discrimination the following:

1. Long-term safety, security and freedom of movement.
2. An adequate standard of living, including at a minimum, access to adequate food, water, housing, healthcare and basic education.
3. Access to employment and livelihoods.
4. Access to effective mechanisms that restore their housing, land and property or provide them with adequate compensation.
5. Access to and replacement of personal and other documentation lost during displacement.

6. Voluntary reunification with family members separated during displacement.
7. Participation in public affairs at all levels on an equal basis with the resident population.
8. Effective remedies for displacement-related violations, including access to justice, reparations and information about the causes of violations.

REHABILITATION OF THE ENVIRONMENT OF HOST COMMUNITIES

The search for any of these durable solutions for internally displaced persons should be understood as a gradual, often long-term process of reducing displacement-specific needs and ensuring the enjoyment of human rights without discrimination.

Achieving durable solutions is, therefore, a complex process that addresses human rights, humanitarian, development, reconstruction and peace-building challenges, requiring the coordinated and timely engagement of different actors.

In seeking durable solutions, intervening agencies must avoid creating dependence and facilitate return as soon as conditions permit, by providing aid that is adequate but not creating living conditions of a higher standard than those in the IDPs' areas of origin which could become an incentive for not seeking voluntary return or relocation.

INSTITUTIONAL MECHANISM FOR COORDINATION AND COLLABORATION

Prior to the creation of the Adamawa State Ministry for Reconstruction, Rehabilitation, Reintegration, and Humanitarian Service, an assessment of internal displacement response coordination mechanism in Adamawa State showed that there were systematic gaps in assistance, protection and some other sectors for intervention at the various phases of displacement, and most agencies take unilateral and mandate-based decisions on their involvement which usually lack accountability This is further complicated by the fact that there was no designated focal coordinating agency with clear leadership responsibilities or accountability to assess and coordinate a comprehensive response.

As part of its implementation framework, this Policy provides for an institutional mechanism for coordination and collaboration, including the establishment of a framework, designation and strengthening of lead internal displacement coordination Ministry, creation of humanitarian coordination sectors and prescription of terms of reference for sector lead agencies. This framework for interagency collaboration and coordination is to ensure more predictable funding, strengthened coordination mechanisms, better preparedness measures and improved common services.

DESIGNATION OF AN IDP FOCAL COORDINATING MINISTRY

The Adamawa State Ministry For Reconstruction, Rehabilitation, Reintegration, And Humanitarian Service, shall be the focal coordinating institution to provide overall leadership for the coordinating of all humanitarian issues, (including IDPS), formulation of policy framework and its implementation with the following responsibilities:

1. Advising the Governor, Government and intergovernmental agencies and donor partners on IDP policy issues.
2. Promoting Donor commitment to IDP response by organizing missions, liaising on an ongoing basis on developments, achievements and funding requirements for humanitarian interventions.
3. Mobilizing relevant authorities at Federal, State and
4. Local Government levels to fulfill their roles and responsibilities regarding IDPs issues.
5. Organizing and maintaining relationship with relevant national authorities (MDAs) and if required, provision of appropriate advice and capacity support. National authorities are the primary actors in programming for displaced persons and must have the capacity to do so. Where they lack the capacity, MRRR & HS must liaise with the relevant UN agencies and international organisations to provide assistance as required to the relevant agencies and departments.

6. Ensuring that the integration of approaches for protecting and assisting displaced persons and host communities are mainstreamed into the policies and practices of relevant agencies, ministries and local authorities.
7. Undertaking comprehensive multi-agency situational analyses, using participatory assessment methodologies to identify threats to the rights of the displaced (and host) populations and assess protection risks, assistance gaps, resources and opportunities available within the displaced and host communities as well as those offered by the national and international players.
8. Identifying, mobilizing and coordinating camp management agencies and other sectoral partners, ensuring that there is co-ordination among other sectors.
9. Ensuring that assessment, protection activities, programme delivery and camp management are all conducted through community-based approaches and with an age, gender and diverse perspective.
10. Evaluating the performance of humanitarian agencies and addressing issues related to underperforming agencies, misuse of assets and strong religious agenda, in an objective and transparent manner.
11. Monitoring and regularly reviewing on an ongoing basis, the development, implementation and evaluation of protection mechanisms and assistance programmes.
12. Identifying and promoting best practices in humanitarian protection and assistance, including harmonizing protection/ assistance standards between camps taking into consideration the host communities.
13. Developing and ensuring compliance (by all government, CSO and humanitarian agency workers) to clear guidelines, Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) and codes of conduct for working with various groups of IDPs including women, children, the elderly, and persons with disabilities.
14. Ensuring Collaboration between Civil and Security actors.
15. Creating internal displacement coordination sectors (herein referred to as sectors), prescribing the composition and responsibility of each technical sector in addition to or in modification of the sectors recommended in this State Policy; and

16. Designating a lead agency for each of the sectors in this State Policy and such other sectors that may be created or modified in furtherance of this State Policy in designating a lead sector agency, MRRR & HS with ADSEMA shall have regard to the mandate, capacity and capability of other relevant agencies; and also constitute an IDP Inter Agency Coordinating Committee (IACC) comprising heads of the various Ministries, Departments and Agencies identified in the broad Institutional framework that shall meet from time to time to plan and oversee operations related to assistance and protection of IDPs during and after displacement Decisions relating to designation of sector leads and functions shall be made by the MRRR & HS in consultation with the [ACC Pursuant to this, at the Ministerial level, the [ACC shall be known as the State Humanitarian Coordination Committee (NHCC), while at the technical level, it will be known as Adamawa State Humanitarian Coordination Technical Working Group that will act as a thinktank and provide advice on such issues referred to it.

ESTABLISHMENT OF INTERNAL DISPLACEMENT

COORDINATION SECTORS

1. This policy has adopted a sectoral approach to Nigeria's internal displacement response to improve the predictability, speed, effectiveness, leadership, coordination, collaboration and accountability of the national humanitarian response in the various sectors.
2. It is envisaged that each sector will have a lead agency, and all sector leads will need to co-ordinate their efforts under the lead of the designated IDP Focal Coordinating Institution to ensure the system's overall delivery within its sector.
3. In each functional sector where the combined response of the sector members and agencies cannot meet the needs, a lead agency (sector lead) will coordinate the efforts of all organizations active in any sector, to assess needs and improve national response capacity.
4. "Sector" leads are to provide a "first port of call" in each sector for any Humanitarian Coordination in planning and implementing responses to an emergency or displacement. Similarly, in the event of a lack of actors and capacity on the ground, the lead agency for each sector would seek to mobilize the necessary resources and additional players while remaining, in effect, "a provider of last resort". Though the aim of the sector-lead approach is to provide predictability and accountability in response to humanitarian emergencies, responsibilities and accountability accrue not only to the sector lead agency, but also to each member of a "sector".

5. Other sector members would accept the lead agency (i.e.) as equal partner(s) in performing sectoral functions, with the sector lead agencies being primus inter pares (first among equals) under the overall auspices of the IDP Focal Coordinating Agency (ADSEMA)
6. Sectors and their leads will have among their priority tasks to ensure capacity-building (national and local) and the setting and monitoring of standards and best practices, in addition to improving the speed, quality and coverage of emergency response in specific situations.
7. The following sectors are hereby established and recommended for coordination of humanitarian assistance and protection of internally displaced persons, and as may be modified and added by the IDP Focal Coordinating Institution:
 - a) Food Aid and Agriculture Sector,
 - b) Camp Coordination, Camp Management and Camp Administration Sector,
 - c) Human Rights and Protection Sector,
 - d) Health and Nutrition Sector,
 - e) Education Sector,
 - f) Water, Sanitation and Hygiene (WASH) Sector,
 - g) Logistics and Communications Sector,
 - h) Emergency, shelter and Non-Food items sector, and
 - i) Early Recovery and Livelihood Sector
 - j) Peace Building and Conflict Resolutions
 - k) Climate Change

TERMS OF REFERENCE FOR SECTOR COORDINATION LEADS

In its efforts to strengthen system-wide preparedness and technical capacity to respond to humanitarian emergencies, and to ensure that there is predictable leadership and accountability in all the main sectors or areas of humanitarian activity targeting internally displaced persons, sector leads will have the primary responsibility of ensuring a more coherent and effective response by mobilizing groups of agencies, organizations and CSOs to respond in a strategic manner across all key sectors or areas of activity.

ADSEMA as the IDP Focal Coordinating Agency- with the support of OCHA and UNHCR - shall retain responsibility for ensuring the adequacy, coherence and effectiveness of the overall internal displacement response.

SECTOR LEADS SHALL HAVE THE FOLLOWING CORE RESPONSIBILITIES:

1. Inclusion of key agencies and relevant humanitarian partners: Ensure inclusion of key agencies and humanitarian partners for the sector, respecting their respective mandates and programme priorities.
2. Establishment and maintenance of appropriate humanitarian coordination mechanisms: Ensure appropriate coordination with all humanitarian partners (including national and international organisations, humanitarian agencies and CSOs), through establishment and maintenance of appropriate sectoral coordination mechanisms, including working groups at the national and, if necessary, local levels.

3. Secure commitments from humanitarian partners in responding to needs and filling gaps, ensuring an appropriate distribution of responsibilities within the sectoral group, with clearly defined focal points for specific issues where necessary.
4. Ensure the different humanitarian actions targeting IDPs are complimentary.
5. Promote emergency response actions while at the same time considering the need for early recovery planning as well as prevention and risk reduction concerns.
6. Ensure effective links with other sectoral groups.
7. Ensure that sectoral coordination mechanisms are adapted over time to reflect the capacities of local actors and the engagement of development partners.
8. Represent the interests of the sectoral group in discussions with the Humanitarian Coordinator and other stakeholders on prioritization, resource mobilization and advocacy.
9. Coordination with national/local authorities, State institutions, local civil society and other relevant actors.
10. Ensure that humanitarian responses are built on local capacities.
11. Ensure appropriate links with national and local authorities, State institutions, local civil society and other relevant actors (e.g. security agencies) and ensure appropriate coordination and information exchange with them.
12. Participatory and community-based approaches: Ensure utilization of participatory and community-based approaches in sectoral needs assessment, analysis, planning, monitoring and response.
13. Attention to priority cross-cutting issues: Ensure the integration of agreed priority cross-cutting issues in sectoral needs assessment, analysis, planning, monitoring and response (e.g. age, diversity, environment, gender, HIV/AIDS and human rights).
14. Contribute to the development of appropriate
15. Strategies to address these issues.
16. Ensure gender-sensitive programming and promote gender equality, by ensuring that the needs, contributions and capacities of women and girls as well as men and boys are addressed.

17. Needs assessment and analysis: Ensure effective and coherent sectoral needs assessment and analysis, involving all relevant partners.
18. Emergency preparedness: Ensure adequate contingency planning and preparedness for new emergencies and displacements.
19. Planning and strategy development: Ensure predictable action within the sectoral group for identification of gaps.
20. Developing and updating agreed response strategies and action plans for the sector and ensuring that these are adequately reflected in overall country strategies, such as the Comprehensive Displacement Management and Implementation Framework (CDMIF), drawing lessons learned from past activities and revising strategies accordingly.
21. Developing an exit, or transition, strategy for the sectoral group.
22. Application of standards: Ensure that sectoral group participants are aware of relevant policy guidelines, technical standards and relevant commitments that the Government has undertaken under international human rights law.
23. Ensure that responses are in line with existing policy guidance, technical standards, and relevant Government human rights and legal obligations.
24. Monitoring and reporting:
 - Ensure adequate monitoring mechanisms are in place to review impact of the sectoral.
 - working group and progress against implementation plans.
 - Ensure adequate reporting and effective information sharing with due regard for age and sex disaggregation.
25. Advocacy and resource mobilization:
 - Identify core advocacy concerns, including resource requirements, and contribute key messages to broader advocacy initiatives of the ADSEMA and other actors.
 - Advocate for donors to fund humanitarian actors to carry out priority activities in the sector concerned, while at the same time encouraging sectoral group participants to mobilize resources for their activities through their usual channels.

26. Training and capacity building:

- Promote and support training of staff and capacity building of humanitarian partners.
- Support efforts to strengthen the capacity of the state authorities and civil society.

27. Provision of assistance or services as a last resort:

- Sector leads are responsible for acting as the provider of last resort (subject to access, security and availability of funding) to meet agreed priority needs and will be supported by the IDP Focal Coordinating Institution in their resource mobilization efforts in this regard.
- This concept is to be applied in an appropriate and realistic manner for cross-cutting issues such as protection, early recovery and camp coordination.

Humanitarian actors who participate in the development of common humanitarian action plans are expected to be proactive partners in assessing needs, developing strategies and plans for the sector, and implementing agreed priority activities. Provisions should also be made in sectoral groups for those humanitarian actors who may wish to participate as observers, mainly for information sharing purposes.

FRAMEWORK FOR INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION

This policy provides for a framework for cooperation between the government of Adamawa State, and international humanitarian agencies, donor partners, international non-governmental organisations and human rights institutions committed to the protection and assistance of internally displaced persons. To this regard, the policy provides for the clear roles and responsibilities on the part of government and international humanitarian actors.

THE ROLES OF THE ADAMAWA STATE GOVERNMENT

The Adamawa State Government, through the MRRR & HS shall:

- a. Liaise directly with the Humanitarian Country Team (HCT) established by the United Nations System in Nigeria through the office of the Resident/Humanitarian Coordinator to develop integrated plans of action in the event of displacement.
- b. Seek for technical assistance and support from the international humanitarian community including humanitarian agencies; development partners, international non-governmental organisations and human rights agencies, especially where national capacity for providing adequate protection and assistance to affected persons and communities in any of the phases of internal displacement is insufficient.

- c. Cooperate, where appropriate, with IDP focal points of ECOWAS, the African Union and international organizations or humanitarian agencies and civil society organizations, in providing protection and assistance as well as finding and implementing durable solutions for sustainable return, local integration, relocation and long-term reconstruction.
 - a. Request for activation of global humanitarian clusters of the international humanitarian community when the situation exceeds local capacity to respond.
 - e. Designate sectoral focal persons who shall liaise directly with corresponding sector leads and global cluster leads of the international humanitarian agencies and donors to ensure coordinated response to all phases of internal displacement from pre-emergency to durable solutions.
 - f. Cooperate with humanitarian agencies, civil society organizations and other relevant actors to devise early warning systems, in areas of potential displacement, establish and implement disaster risk reduction strategies, emergency and disaster preparedness and management measures and, where necessary, provide immediate protection and assistance to internally displaced persons.
 - g. Recognize the right of international humanitarian organizations and other appropriate actors to offer their services in support of the internally displaced. To this regard, the government shall not regard such offers of assistance as unfriendly acts or interference in internal affairs and shall consider them in good faith to the extent to which they do not undermine the country's sovereignty.
 - h. Provide unrestricted access and not withhold consent thereto without serious and objective reasons, and accept external assistance, particularly when local agencies and relevant authorities concerned are unable or unwilling to provide the required humanitarian assistance or protection.
 - i. Liaise with all authorities concerned to grant and facilitate for international humanitarian organizations and other appropriate actors, in the exercise of their respective mandates, rapid and unimpeded access to internally displaced persons to assist in their rehabilitation, return, relocation and local integration.

- j. Respect the independence and operational autonomy of international humanitarian actors and shall not unduly interfere with their internal affairs and modus operandi, as long as they operate within the ambit of local and international laws.

THE ROLES OF REGIONAL, INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN AND DEVELOPMENT ACTORS

Where international humanitarian agencies, development partners and International Non-governmental Organisations (INGOs) are involved in providing assistance and protection in the event of internal displacement, they shall:

- a. Collaborate directly with the corresponding sectoral leads established under the sectoral approach in this policy to execute actions in a way that strengthens local capacity and maximizes use of available human, financial and material resources.
- b. Give due regard to the protection needs and human rights of IDPs and commit to the principles underlying this policy including the principles of humanity and humanitarian imperative, neutrality, impartiality and non-discrimination, independence and respect, for national sovereignty; and
- c. Commit to the obligations of humanitarian actors prescribed by the Kampala Convention (Article 6) and responsibilities defined in this policy (Section 42) Fundamental to this is compliance with the state, national and international laws and guidelines for protection and assistance of IDPs, adoption of international best practices, adherence to internationally acceptable codes of conduct and standard operating procedures for protection and delivery of humanitarian assistance services, and compliance with the Sphere Core Minimum Standards for humanitarian assistance across all sectors

LEGAL FRAMEWORK

This Adamawa State Policy is predicated on and inspired by Nigeria's human rights and humanitarian law obligations under the Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria 1999 (as amended), statutes, and relevant sub-regional, regional, and international treaties Nigeria has either ratified or domesticated. These include the Kampala Convention (which Nigeria has ratified) and the UN Guiding Principles on IDPs (which incorporate the rights of individuals and groups in both peace and armed conflict situations) Accordingly, and in light of the imperative need to bolster the legal framework for the protection and assistance of IDPs in Adamawa State, the State government shall take the following policy actions:

- i. Domesticate the Kampala Convention on the Protection and assistance of IDPs.
- ii. Comply with its international obligations under the Kampala Convention and other relevant human rights and humanitarian law instruments.
- iii. Ensure, monitor, and evaluate the progressive implementation of the Kampala Convention (as domesticated).
- iv. Amend the existing laws of relevant institutions to accommodate IDPs or enact a separate domestic law on the protection and assistance of IDPs; and
- v. Liaise with local governments to enact relevant laws on the protection and assistance of IDPs having regard to respective legislative competence under the Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria 1999 (as amended)

CHAPTER SIX

FUNDING, MONITORING, EVALUATION AND POLICY REVIEW

This chapter seeks to outline the financial resource mobilization strategies, monitoring and evaluation frameworks of the policy.

FUNDING MECHANISMS AND RESOURCE MOBILISATION

Funding and resource mobilization for humanitarian purposes including support for prevention and all phases of displacement shall include a number of mechanisms, including:

JOINT HUMANITARIAN FUNDING MECHANISMS

There shall be, established, a joint humanitarian fund under ADSEMA. During complex emergencies, disasters and displacements irrespective of the cause, the MRRR & HS shall oversee the process to annual Joint Appeal Process (JAP). This entails formulating a Joint Humanitarian Action Plan (JHAP) based on the CDMIF. This JHAP shall be a joint strategy analyzing the political, social and security situation of the particular situation or crisis; projecting short-term and long-term humanitarian needs; assessing the capacities of the agencies involved in addressing these needs; and proposing a common set of objectives, actions and indicators for success.

A JAP, then, sets out the specific projects and resources required to meet these objectives. Together, these documents serve as the primary tool to mobilize resources at the field level. The joint humanitarian fund shall serve as a joint donor basket for humanitarian agencies to furnish in preparation for interventions. All intervening donor agencies should be encouraged to contribute a minimum of 5% of their resources for intervention into the joint humanitarian funding basket that shall be deployed on need basis by the MRRR & HS & ADSEMA, in consultation with the Inter-Agency Coordination Committee (IACC).

The Governor/STATE GOVERNMENT shall provide seed funds into the Joint Humanitarian Funding Basket to jumpstart critical operations, and fund life-saving programmes that are not yet funded.

FLASH APPEAL FUNDING MECHANISMS

A shorter Flash Appeal can also be prepared to enable more rapid resource mobilization and response, although agencies and organisations can also apply for bilateral funding.

GRANTS AND LOANS FUNDING MECHANISMS

In addition, the Office of the Humanitarian Affairs Coordination of the State could access grants and/or loans available from the UN Central Emergency Response Fund (CERF) and other AU emergency and IDP contingency funding mechanisms to support activities to respond to rapid onset or under-funded emergencies and displacement.

INDIVIDUAL INSTITUTIONAL AND AGENCY FUNDING MECHANISMS

Various government and humanitarian agencies shall use their internal funding mechanisms including budgetary allocations to ensure that there are adequate resources for responding to their various sectoral responsibilities in the respective sectors.

MONITORING AND EVALUATION

A policy implementation strategic framework and plan of action will be developed, with a clear monitoring and evaluation framework by MRRR & HS. There will be established clear benchmarks for assessing the level of implementation of this policy, and a special monitoring and evaluation unit will be established in the MRRR & ADSEMA that shall serve as an IDP databank and clearing house. Monitoring shall be directed at ensuring compliance with the policy guidelines, frameworks, and scope, whilst evaluation will aim at determining the extent of achievement of policy goals and objectives, benchmarks, and targets. These processes help in determining the progress and effectiveness of policy implementation efforts related to key outcomes for the IDPs in Adamawa State

- i. An IDP Data Collection and Information System for the collection, analysis and dissemination of data to relevant stakeholders on the plight, needs, volume, trend and impact of internal displacement on IDPs, democracy, security and host communities.
- ii. The Data Collection and Information System shall be jointly coordinated by the ADSEMA in constant consultation with other federal, state and local government areas as well as CSOs and inter-governmental bodies.

GOVERNMENT RESPONSIBILITIES IN THIS REGARD WOULD INCLUDE:

- i. The practical implementation of all treaty and constitutional obligations towards the IDPs, particularly, the AU Kampala Convention to which Nigeria is a party.
- ii. The preparation of periodic reports on the state of internal displacement and its impact on IDPs in the state.
- iii. The development of a 5-year strategic implementation framework of this policy by the ADSEMA; and
- iv. The conduct of periodic evaluation of the attainment of policy targets and strategies for durable solutions

POLICY REVIEW PROCESS

The Adamawa State Policy on IDPs shall be reviewed periodically but not later than five years by the ADSEMA in conjunction with line MDAs and partners with a view to making necessary improvements. The review process will be democratic and inclusive and involve wide-range consultations and discussions with all the stakeholders, especially the implementing government agencies, international humanitarian agencies, donor partners, international NGOs, civil society organizations, IDPs and host communities.
